Tells How Fighters Braved Incendiaries, Rammed Powder Into Red Hot Guns In Last Hours on Stricken Hornet

(The war correspondent who wrote the following dispatch has been compelled by reasons of military security enforced by naval censorship, to suppress one of the best stories of the Pacific war since Oct. 26. On that date, he witnessed the death of the aircraft carrier Hornet, and now, with official permission, describes it.)

By CHARLES P. ARNOT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HEADQUARTERS, United States Pacific Fleet, Pearl Harbor—A seaman, lying on the blistering deck of the crippled aircraft carrier Hornet as enemy planes shrieked down, tried to climb off his stretcher "to have another shot at the Japs." One of his legs had been shattered, the other broken.

A man with a broken back tried to refuse a surgeon's care so his buddy could be treated first.

Four men ran to throw a blazing, bone-searing incendiary bomb off the deck.

Men rammed powder into almost red hot guns with their bare hands when the automatic controls were knocked out.

Those are a few of the scores of incidents that made American heroes and American history when the 11 United States warships, whose names were made public today, were sunk in the South Pacific last fall, all fighting to the last.

I was with the fleet. I saw the hit that crippled the Hornet, and I heard at first hand the stories of officers and men in all four engagements concerned.

Japan paid a price for those ships which her navy should never forget. The score was: Hornet—sunk in the battle of Santa Cruz Oct. 26. Japan paid with a large aircraft

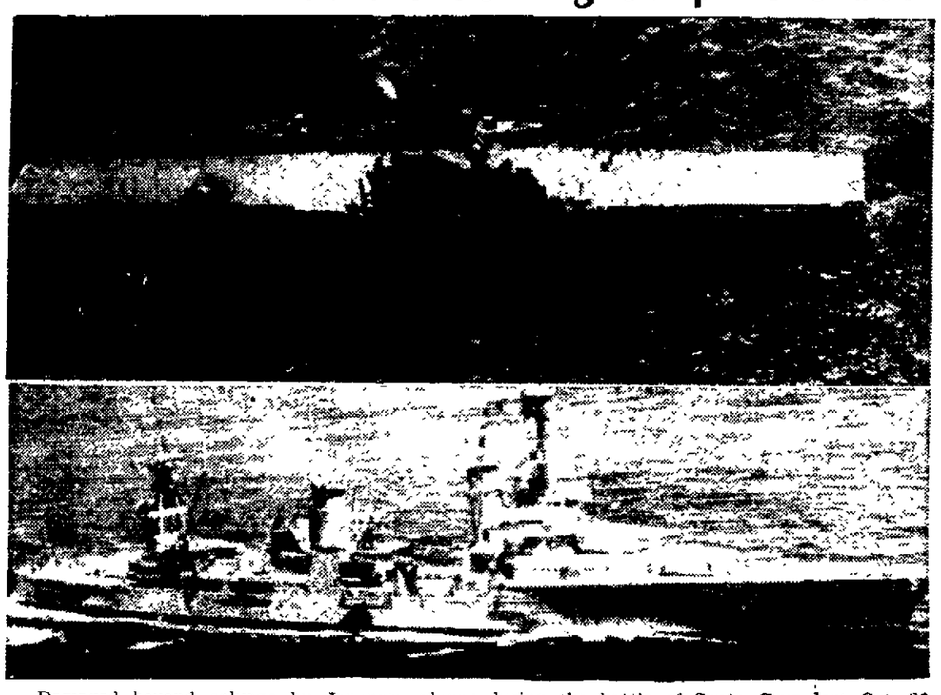
Hornet Lists before Getting Coup De Grace



Damaged beyond salvage by Japanese planes during the battle of Santa Cruz last Oct. 26, the 20,000-ton U. S. aircraft carrier Hornet is seen (top) listing badly before being sunk by American gunfire. At bottom is the heavy cruiser Northhampton, which was also sunk in the battle, along with nine other United States warships off Guadalcanal, the navy revealed. The Japanese lost at least 25 warships, the navy said.

TEACHERS ASK PAY INCREASE OF 15 PER CENT

Second Request For Salary Boost Made at Session of City Association.

Request for an approximate 15 per cent increase in salaries for all teachers and other employes of the board of education was contained in a resolution passed yesterday at a meeting of the Mansfield City Teachers' association.

The resolution, drawn up Sunday afternoon by the executive board of the teachers' association and the Mansfield Federation of Teachers, was presented by Miss Elizabeth Hamel, past president of the teachers' group who served as spokesman. The increase was requested "on the basis of figures involved in establishing the capacity of the board of education to pay," the resolution stated. It asks that it be effective as of Jan. 1, 1943.

It is the second raise petitioned for by teachers and other employes during the present school year. In September, a $90 pay boost for the 1942-43 term was granted by the board of education to all school workers. This amounted to an increase of from five to 10 per cent.

Teachers pointed out during the discussion that they had not been granted a general 10 per cent raise as previously stated. If the 15 per cent increase were granted it would mean an increase of almost $70,000 over the 1942 appropriation of $461,697 for salaries of school employes, it was reported.

School board members declined to comment today when questioned about the requested increase.

Program for yesterday's meeting, the first of the new year, was a panel discussion on juvenile delinquency by Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer, Ralph Carroll, chief deputy of the juvenile court and Mrs. Marjorie Comer, deputy. John H. Eisaman, clerk-treasurer and attendance officer of the board of education, was chairman. The group answered a series of eight questions dealing with delinquency bringing out the school's importance in the problem.

REPORT RIOTS

Turks Hear Revolt Spreads Throughout Bulgaria.

ISTANBUL — (AP) — Reports of rioting and revolt throughout Bulgaria were heard here today along with rumors that German military authorities were threatening to oust the Sofia government.

One account which reached Turkey said students at the Sofia military college had fled to the mountains for guerrilla operations after several days of disorders. Another report said there had been mass arrests in numerous Bulgarian cities as a result of demonstrations against the government.

Telephone connections between Bulgaria and Turkey were disrupted, but it was not disclosed whether this was connected with developments in Bulgaria. Operations of the line always has been erratic.

SIX KILLED

Army Fails To Reveal Names Of Bomber Crash Victims.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(INS)—Army officials today announced the death of six crew members of an army B-25 medium bomber which crashed and burned 15 miles northeast of Peterson field air base at Colorado Springs.

The bomber took off early yesterday on a routine flight and the wreckage was discovered shortly before noon. Names of the crew were not disclosed.

Reveals Details Of Heroism Costing Mansfielder's Life

The Navy department today revealed details of the awarding of posthumous Navy and Marine corps medals for bravery to a Mansfield seaman, Elmo Hyatt, 34, who lost his life Aug. 29 when a U. S. merchant ship, S. S. Topa Topa, was sunk by the Japs in the South Pacific.

Seaman Hyatt's death and his citation for bravery were reported in a News-Journal story Dec. 29 when the widow, Mrs. Audrey Hyatt, 398 Hammond avenue, was informed of the award. He was reported missing last October.

The medal was awarded for "heroic and meritorious conduct while serving on board a U. S. merchant ship following torpedoing of that vessel," the Navy department announced today.

With utter disregard for his own life,", the citation stated, "Hyatt, who had been sleeping at the after gun pilot to the enemy attack, jumped clear of the burning oil and gasoline and dived into the sea to rescue two helpless shipmates, imperilling his own safety by taking off his life jacket to share it with the drowning men. Hyatt succeeded for a time in claiming them by his cool and encouraging assistance. His heroic efforts, however, were unavailing and the three men were drowned in the ensuing struggle. His spirit of self sacrifice and loyalty on behalf of his shipmates was in keeping with the finest traditions of the United States naval service."

Hyatt, seaman second class, enlisted in the navy last May. He came to Mansfield from Kentucky and was employed for two years at the Westinghouse plant before he enlisted.

COUNTY READY FOR FOOD DRIVE

Richland Farmers Prepare To Launch Big Production Program To Aid War.

While there was no county-wide observance today of national farm mobilization day, Richland county farmers were preparing to launch the biggest food production program in the county's history to supply the fighting forces and the hungry nations overseas.

Substituted for a mobilization meeting were a series of community sessions scheduled to open Wednesday afternoon in two county districts. Nine meetings in all will be conducted during the next two weeks to acquaint farmers with soil conservation practices and instruct them in the proper method to fill out their work blanks and manpower inventory sheets.

Highlighting the mobilization day observance today was to be a message from President Roosevelt to farmers, from 4 to 4:30 p. m. over a national radio network by James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization.

Soil conservation service technicians, H. E. Hecker, Roy Roller, and Fred Gehret will be in charge of the sessions which will be sponsored jointly by the county war board and the federal soil conservation service.

The county war board, headed by Guy L. Taylor, today had released the 1943 food production quotas for the county, giving farmers an idea of the size of their task.

ASKS REMOVAL OF TAXES ON FOOD, MEDICINE

Bricker Drops Question of Moving Back Clocks Into Legislators' Laps.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The 95th Ohio general assembly today had before it a recommendation by Governor Bricker that the sales tax be removed from prescription medicines and food consumed in restaurants and hotels.

This proposal, which would remove the tax from all foods, would save the consumers of Ohio about $3,000,000 annually, it was estimated.

In a combined inaugural message and his report on the condition of the state, delivered last night to a joint session of the house and senate, Bricker also recommended war-time relaxation of laws governing employment of women and children, the centralization of welfare activities in each county, the enactment of a 35-mile-an-hour speed limit on Ohio's highways for the duration, and a 10 per cent pay raise for the approximately 14,000 state workers now earning less than $2,000 annually and who have not been raised in the last six months. These raises would cost the state about $2,000,000 annually.

The matter of setting Ohio clocks back an hour to "slow time" was dumped directly in the laps of the legislature. The governor did not, as he said he might a few days ago, recommend the appointment of a commission to discuss the matter with Donald Nelson, WPB chief in Washington.

Instead, he asked only that the legislature consider the problem "from the standpoint of giving the greatest aid to the nation at war."

Bricker pointed out that all the solons had been furnished with a copy of his correspondence with Nelson, in which a difference of opinion seemed to exist as to whether the savings of electrical power in Ohio due to war time was sufficient to warrant a continuance of "fast time" in the state.

Nelson pointed to a savings of 100,000,000 kilowatts per year in disapproving of a change back to "slow time." Bricker had cited that this represented only a sav-

Prices Fixed at Top Level of Monday's Sales.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Office of Price Administration today froze corn prices on all exchanges and in every cash and local market throughout the nation at the highest levels at which sales were made on Monday, Jan. 11.

The move was designed to halt further sharp advances in the price of corn—America's largest farm crop.

OPA's action on corn, previously uncontrolled at all levels of distribution, was made upon instructions from Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes. The move also was approved by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

Allied Planes Batter Naples In Day Attack

Russians Sweep Foe Back Toward Rostov As Germans Throw Masses Of Tanks Into Don Battle In Attempt To Stem Sweeping Red Offensive.

(By Associated Press)

Soviet dispatches declared today that wavering German troops had retreated another 20 miles on the eastern approaches to Rostov, while on the lower Don front the Nazi high command was reported throwing masses of tank-led infantry into a desperate new attempt to halt the Red armies.

Once again, a series of brilliant Russian strokes overshadowed the news from other fronts in the global war. There were Allied bombing attacks on the Italian port of Naples and on Germany's war foundries in the Ruhr.

Italian headquarters listed nearly 100 killed and wounded in the raid on Naples.

An American communique said U. S. four-motor Liberator bombers engaged in the attack, blasting harbor installations and shipping. It was the 38th assault of the war on Naples.

Hitler's high command acknowledged that the Russians were keeping up the offensive in three major sectors.

A Rome broadcast quoted the German foreign office publication, Dienst Aus Deutschland, as declaring:

"The most rigid reserve must be maintained regarding the fighting in Russia, as the Russians are displaying their greatest strength now."

Soviet dispatches said the drive which has carried Russia's Caucasus armies 80 miles from recaptured Mozdok in nine days had put Red army forces in a position to sweep back to the headwaters of the Kuban river and threaten recapture of the German-held Maikop oil fields.

A late bulletin from Moscow said the Red army, led by Cossacks slashing their way triumphantly back into their homeland, had already driven the Germans back into the Kuban river region between the towering Caucasus mountains and the River Don.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said the Cossacks had returned to their devastated villages and towns in the Kuban area after the Caucasian provinces of North Osetia and Kabardino Bakaria had been wrested back from the Nazi invaders.

"On the lower Don area, our troops fought offensive engagements," Red army headquarters announced. "The enemy is striving to stem the advance of Soviet troops, hurling large forces of tanks and infantry into the battle.

"In one sector, the Hitlerites concentrated about 100 tanks and launched fierce counter-attacks. Our troops repulsed all enemy counter-attacks, disabled 13 tanks and killed more than 300 German officers and men."

REINFORCED: Japs Get Help In Aleutians On Long Nights

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The navy announced today that while Japanese Zeros attacked a force of American dive bombers and fighter planes in the central Solomons, yesterday, the battle ended with four and possibly six enemy planes destroyed against the loss of one American aircraft.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Under cover of the long arctic nights, the Japanese invaders of Kiska island in the Aleutians appear to have been receiving supplies and reinforcements.

Military authorities expressed the opinion today that on the basis of available information the enemy's hold on their bleak outpost off Alaska probably is little if any more secure than it was last fall.

One of the most recent indications the Japanese have not been idle came when two Lightning fighters escorting medium bombers on a raid over Kiska harbor were shot down by four Japanese float-type Zero planes on Dec. 30. Only one of the Zeros was destroyed. That was the first evidence the Japs had float planes at Kiska.

The Japanese moved into Attu, Agattu and Kiska islands, the westernmost Aleutians, last June simultaneously with their attack on Midway island. Their defeat at Midway left the northern arm of what they apparently had intended as a pincers drive on the North American continent more or less useless.

Throughout the summer and well into the fall these attacks were carried out with the regularity of clockwork and the Japs lost heavily in ships and planes.

Military and naval men, discussing the general Aleutians situation, said the long northern nights

STEP-UP: Yank Fliers Increase Air Attacks On Jap-Held Areas

(By International News Service)

NEW DELHI—The American air force based in India carried out 45 offensive operations over Japanese-occupied territory in that area during December, Brig. Gen. Clayton Bissell, commander of the USAF, announced today in reporting a sharp increase in the air-offensive against the enemy.

The record of approximately three raids every 48 hours was a 50 per cent increase over scale of the November offensive, Gen. Bissell declared.

Gen. Bissell intimated strongly that the scale of the American air offensive against the enemy could be expected to show further sharp increases in the immediate future.

"American ferry pilots are bringing planes from the United States to India in a steady stream," he said. "Capt. Edward Higgins, of Glendive, Mont., arrived at an American air force base here 65 hours and five minutes after leaving the United States."

As the American air force grows in power and quality, said Gen. Bissell, the Japanese are showing signs of deterioration in the air—both in quality of planes and skill of pilots.

American pilots operating in the China area, he said, reported the Japanese were using second-rate planes in some sectors—a type that has been almost entirely replaced by monoplanes in all first-class air forces.

Japanese pilots have given clear evidence in combat, he added, that they are not up to the standards of those encountered in earlier stages of the fighting in the Far East.

SOVIETS SCORE 20-MILE GAIN TOWARD ROSTOV

Sweep Foe Back as Allied Planes Batter Naples In Daylight Raid.

Don steppes from the north, the nearest Soviet column was reported less than 100 miles from Rostov. Another Red army, striking from the east, was only 60 miles from the great German stronghold, whose fall would cut off the land "escape route" of hundreds of thousands of Axis soldiers.

The new 20-mile German withdrawal east of Rostov came as Soviet troops, pushing down the railroad from Stalingrad to the Black sea, captured the town of Kuberle after an advance from Zimovniki.

In the central Caucasus, dispatches reported a dramatic coup by Russian soldiers who stormed into the health spa at Mineralnye Vodi, about midway along the Rostov-Batu railroad, and found two trainloads of German troops, with munitions, waiting to move toward the front.

On the central (Moscow) front, the Russians said that "despite tremendous losses in manpower and equipment, the German command is throwing large forces of infantry and tanks into the counter-attack" in the Velikie Luki sector, 90 miles from the Latvian frontier.

"Repelling the Hitlerite counter-attack, our troops are inflicting heavy losses on the enemy," Red army headquarters said.

Other major developments:

TUNISIA—Tank-led British infantry were reported to have driven German forces from hill positions straddling an arterial road 14 miles south of Medjez-El-Bab, which lies 35 miles below Tunis.

Frontline dispatches said the Germans, apparently seeking to flank British vanguards at Medjez-El-Bab, pushed across the arterial road and occupied a hill and a farm. Counter-attacking British troops routed the Germans from the hill on Sunday and yesterday pushed on to seize high ground on the eastern side of the highway.

French headquarters in North Africa reported that French troops fighting alongside the Allies in Tunisia had driven the Germans out of a mountain pass 23 miles north of Pont Du Fahs, which lies about 30 miles below Tunis, and captured at least 180 prisoners.

"Our troops made quite substantial gains at Karachouan, south of Pont Du Fahs," a French spokesman said.

German and Italian troops were described as surrounded in a valley less than 50 miles inland from the eastern Tunisia port of Sousse, and a battle there was reported still raging.

Meanwhile, U. S Flying Fortresses, in their first big raid into Italian Tripolitania, next door to Tunisia, attacked the Axis fort at Ghadames, 450 miles south of Tunis.

AIR WAR—Striking at both ends of Nazi-conquered Europe, Allied warplanes pounded the big Italian port of Naples in daylight yesterday and bombed the great Ruhr industrial valley in western Germany last night.

An Italian communique said our attacking aircraft were shot down and asserted that only slight damage was inflicted. The communique listed 23 killed and 75 injured in the raid.

LIBYA — British headquarters again announced "nothing to report" from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army, long called in its pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps.

RAF planes bombed and machine-gunned targets on the road between Misurata and Tripoli, the British reported, and Italian headquarters asserted 18 Allied planes were destroyed by Axis airmen. The Fascist war bulletin acknowledged that Italian troops in the Fezzan region of southern Libya, deep in the desert, had been "compelled to retreat" anew.

Report Tiff Between Rommel and Nehring

LONDON — (AP) — Reliable information via neutral sources from Germany today indicated that a squabble for authority between Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and General Walther Nehring underlies the confusion over who is commanding the German forces in Tunisia.

It was said that even intervention by Adolf Hitler had failed to reconcile the two high German officers.

(Propaganda analysts in the United States and other Allied nations have pointed out previously that Nazi propagandists often have fed the world stories of dissension and strife in high German political and military circles in an effort to lull the United Nations into a belief of internal disintegration in Germany, and thus promote complacency and over-confidence on Allied home and military fronts.)

The report had been current several weeks that Nehring had been replaced by Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim as commander-in-chief of the Axis forces in Tunisia.

Well-informed neutrals said this apparently was true and resulted from Rommel's emphatic refusal to serve under Nehring.

Nehring, likewise, was reported to have refused to serve under Rommel.

Mr. Bell died Sunday afternoon at the family home at 569 West Fourth street, while conversing with relatives. His last two-day illness brought to six the number of days he had been absent from duty other than when on regular leave, in nearly 36 years of service.

At the Jones Memorial hundreds of friends filed past his bier last night and today.

COUNCIL TAKES UP '43 REVENUE BILL TONIGHT

Provision Expected To Be Made To Increase Wages of City Employes.

With the 1943 appropriations measure enjoying the greatest importance, various pieces of legislation will be before council sitting in special session tonight.

While details of a scheduled general pay increase for municipal employes likely will not be ready for consideration tonight it is expected that appropriation adjustments over the budget adopted last July will make provision for their early application.

Renewal of three contracts with General hospital will be asked by Service Director Fred B. Wolff. One will provide payment of $5,000 to Dr. Charles R. Keller and the Richland county Medical society for services to the city's indigent persons committed to the hospital. Another will provide a daily fee of $4.75 for maintenance and care of such patients. The third class for payment not exceeding $118 a month for laboratory services.

Renewal of a fire department service contract with trustees of Madison township will be asked, the township paying $2,000 for such protection during 1943. A similar contract with South Boulevards calls for a fee of $250.

To provide nursing service for the city's indigent a supplemental appropriation of $200 to be paid to the Visiting Nurses association will be considered. The established rate will be 50 cents per visit.

Under proposed legislation City Auditor Paul L. Kelley will be authorized and directed to ask county officials for advance drafts on 1943 tax monies payable to the city to meet operating expenses.

urer's report. This report and that of the executive secretary, Jane Williams, was presented at last night's meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

More than 50 members and subscribers of the organization attended the session which marked the first time that the annual meeting has been held in January since the fiscal year was changed to January from June. All subscribers were eligible to vote for the 40 trustees elected during the meeting.

Disbursements since June 1, after the continuation drive held to sustain the agencies until the beginning of the new fiscal year, amounted to $33,907.91. Receipts, including $24,856.39 pledged to the continuation drive plus a balance of $8,865.59 on hand June 1, and other monies amounting to $645.31 totalled $33,936.86.

Only $317.28 remains due on the 1942 continuation drive to which $24,856.39 was pledged. The amount collected totalled $24,425.96 while shrinkage due to job tournover, death and defaulted payments were listed at $430.

Agencies in the Fund shared in the disbursements to the extent of $29,512.16. Administration costs totalled $2,197.75, campaign expenses amounting to $2,168.80 were loaned to the War Chest and miscellaneous expenses totalled $29.20.

Changes and accomplishments of the Fund the past 18 months were described by Mrs. Williams, executive secretary.

She recalled that at the end of the 1932-33 fiscal year, the Fund had barely enough money to operate for two weeks.

In 1939, however, the Fund started on the come-back trail and with Clyde Smaltz as campaign chairman and Sidney Palmer as executive secretary, raised $63,000 exceeding its goal by $4,000. Each campaign since then, she said, has gone over the top, last year raising $71,000.

This year with the War Chest as a partner $163,000 was pledged on a $64,000 goal to the combined organizations.

Attention was directed to the two new agencies added to the Fund last year. The Hospital Bureau and St. Vincent de Paul society, and to the initiative taken by the Fund in setting up a War Chest organization. An emergency fund has also grown from $202 in 1940 to $4,000, she said.

The request of two agencies, Friendly House and the Y. M. C. A., for the total sum of $1,710 to continue supervision and leadership in certain activities that would otherwise be curtailed since the WPA which furnished a worker to each organization has ceased, was considered by the executive committee.

Action was taken to advance salary for one month to each agency so that a worker could be employed and activities continued uninterrupted until a request for the amount could be carried by the executive committee to the War Chest committee.

The Y. M. C. A. will receive $80 for salary against its year's request for $960 and Friendly House will receive $62.50. The latter agency asked for $750 to employ a worker for the year.

Should the War Chest agree to the request the salaries would come out of the Chest overage fund and not out of the contingency fund set up by the Community Fund.

Petrillo Asks Investigation of Critics, Charges Monopoly.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President James Caesar Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians told senators investigating a union ban against recorded music today that "a few giant corporations" had become rich at the expense of "the live musician."

Only by a full inquiry into the industry, he testified, could the committee know the extent of "the tremendous control of the entire music industry, including record making, radio broadcasting" by these corporations.

The short, stocky Chicago man who has headed his union since 1940 said these corporations "have become powerful and prosperous on the original work, and at the expense of, the live musicians."

Thus: Petrillo, object of the investigation by an interstate commerce subcommittee headed by Senator Clark (D., Idaho), in turn demanded an investigation of his principal critics, who, he said, were guilty "of monopoly, interlocking arrangements and large profits."

Allies Sink Another Jap Warship, Belief

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA — (INS)—A Japanese warship escorting the ill-fated enemy convoy which attempted to reinforce Nipponese troops at Lae, New Guinea, was believed today to have been sunk by Allied aircraft pursuing the beaten naval force northeastward to the island of New Britain.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in a communique that a Japanese cruiser or large destroyer had been successfully attacked by American torpedo planes off Gasmata on the south coast of New Britain.

The hits scored by the torpedo planes in a dusk attack caused huge explosions aboard the Jap warship. "The ship was not visible at daybreak and she was believed to have sunk during the night," the communique stated.

The enemy convoy, which set out from an enemy base on New Britain island early last week and headed westward for New Guinea included six transport and supply ships, two cruisers and four destroyers.

The invasion force, heavily protected by war planes, was under almost constant attack by Allied bombers and was severely damaged before reaching its goal at Lae.

The first communique on the sea-air battle told of sinking two transports and damaging one. The following day another transport was reported sunk and two damaged. Monday's communique reported damaging hits scored on two unidentified vessels.

This raised the total losses of the enemy in the ill-fated expedition to three transports sunk and a warship probably sunk, three transports damaged and two unidentified vessels damaged. It was not clear, however, whether the last two vessels had been previously damaged.

In addition the Japanese lost 137 planes destroyed, probably destroyed and damaged in the disastrous attempt to reinforce the Lae garrison.

Japs Resist British Advance In Burma

NEW DELHI — (INS) — Japanese forces are offering strong resistance in heavy fighting against British ground forces in the Donbiak area in the Arakan district of Burma, the British India command announced today.

The furious clashes followed a further southward advance toward the port of Akyab by forces under command of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell.

A new bombing assault last night by British aircraft against the Jap-occupied villages on Akyab island also was announced in the communique.

NEAR DEATH IN ROUTE 42 CRASH

Ashlander Critically Injured as Car Hits Truck, Which Sets Off Police Alarm.

Earl E. Wise, 35, Ashland R. D. 4, is near death in General hospital and William G. Mathias, 42, Caledonia, is recovering of injuries resulting from a collision at 1:40 a. m. today on Ashland road near East Fourth street.

Wise, unconscious and bleeding profusely, was removed from his crushed sedan after 30 minutes of effort by Police Captain Paul Whipp, Lieutenant Eugene Hartnett and Patrolmen John Grohol and Carl Beard.

Mathias said he was driving a stake-body stock truck about 200 feet in the rear of a semi-trailer outfit when the Wise car came past the trailer at high speed, swung to the wrong side of the road and crashed into the Mathias truck.

The truck was hurled off the road against a utility pole which was sheared off and a police-fire signal apparatus, attached to it, set off ringing in police and fire headquarters. The Wise car turned over several times before coming to rest on the curb.

Wise is listed on police reports as a railroad brakeman. Shortly before the collision, police say, they had arrested his companion at an East Fourth street cafe when called there on a report of disturbance, but not until after Wise had left the scene in his car.

Other accidents reported were minor collisions between autos driven by Charles Eichinger, 236 East First street, and John Schoesler, 49 Wolfe avenue, at Diamond and First streets; and John F. Lantz, Mansfield R. D. 4, and John Pocock, 98 Hedges street, on Foster street.

Ice Cream Production Again Is Cut By WPB

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—The war production board today limited January production of ice cream to 50 per cent of the amount each manufacturer made last October.

This represented a reduction of one-sixth from December, when each manufacturer was permitted to make 60 per cent of his October amount.

The order also applies to frozen custard, milk sherbet, other frozen desserts and ice cream mix. WPB said the order was issued at the request of the United States department of agriculture "to further relieve the butter shortage."

IF YOUR BORDEN'S DEALER IS SHORT OF ICE CREAM . . . HERE'S THE REASON

The amount of ice cream the Borden's dealer receives from us has been cut . . . because the amount the government lets us manufacture has been cut.

So while we make every effort to distribute the restricted output of Borden's ice cream fairly, occasionally a dealer can give you only part of your order, or he may even run out entirely. If this should happen, won't you please be patient? Your Borden's dealer is doing the best he can to meet a difficult situation.

Cat Serves as Efficient Alarm Clock In Home

IDAHO FALLS, Ida.—(INS)—The family cat replaces the worn out alarm clock at the home of former Governor B. W. Clark of Idaho Falls.

The former governor, who had the job of seeing that high school students arrived in potato fields daily, received a number of presents from them and gave his cat an extra big helping of milk.

"It was up to me to be at the assembly corner on time, so I put our alarm clock in action," Clark said.

After a few mornings the alarm "gave out," but the family cat took over the duty, and without fail would scratch on the bedroom window and meow promptly at 7 a. m.

"I would get up, let the cat in and give her a little to eat," he said. She is still performing her alarm clock role most satisfactorily.

MRS. WEIR DISCUSSES OHIO ARTISTS MONDAY

Victorian Club Members Have Dessert-Luncheon at Women's Club With Mrs. Neumann As Hostess.

VICTORIAN CLUB MEMBERS enjoyed an interesting program at the Women's Club Monday when Mrs. D. A. Weir presented the program on "Ohio Art and Artists."

The speaker traced the course art has progressed in Ohio from the self-taught sign painters and wax-work modelers on our frontier a few decades ago to the studios of Ohioans in Paris and Florence. She mentioned in particular Thomas Cole and James Beard as examples of active pre-Civil war decades, and told her audience that scores of Ohio men were carving busts and statues and painting portraits, landscapes and miniatures at that time. She described the paintings of Hudson Valley scenes for which Cole is famous, and "The Last Man," a picture of a man marooned on a crag, surrounded by rising floods, painted by Beard.

"The most outward sign of interest in art is being shown in the growth of art museums in Ohio, and their frequent displays of work of local artists," Mrs. Weir told the members.

The career of Frank Duveneck also was discussed and Mrs. Weir told of his work as a teacher at the Art Academy in Cincinnati, where he acted as adviser to the museum which adjoins it. Some of his many canvasses, owned by the museum, are always on display there, she said.

Mrs. Weir described James Hopkins as the greatest living Ohio artist, noted for his tender and understanding studies of mountain people. John Ward was another artist mentioned by Mrs. Weir, who told of the international praise which he received for his work, with fine examples being on display in the Cincinnati Museum of Art. She referred especially to his celebrated statuette, "The Emancipated Slave," at the museum.

Mrs. Kittie F. Neumann was hostess for Monday's meeting, a dessert-luncheon. The next meeting, Jan. 25, also at the Women's Club, will have Mrs. R. E. Hutchinson as hostess, with Mrs. Paul F. Cropper presenting the program on "The Theater In Ohio."

Everyone Entitled to His Own Life

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"My home problem is with a married sister and her children. I'm not married and have had a home with my sister since we became orphaned over a quarter of a century ago when she was single.

"After she married, she persuaded me to continue to live with her. I believed in her, loved her dearly, and followed her suggestion. At that time I operated a successful business and had a very comfortable home. Her husband found it more profitable to pass on his home responsibilities to me, which I accepted, thinking in time it would help a newly married couple to get along. I now fully realize my mistake.

"In recent years I've had financial reverses and am unable to pass on money as freely as before. My sister's entire attitude has changed. She has become abusive and disrespectful. She neglects to serve me food, for which I have paid. I pay better than 50 per cent of the whole rent for a dingy little room, which I call my own.

"She has become very free in her insults to me so that her children treat me like a pariah. Their father never handed them any weekly allowance for spending, which I always did. I've discontinued this allowance since they've begun to ignore me.

"I've discussed this situation with my doctor who advises me I must seek quarters of my own, and avoid facing these conditions daily. I never married owing to the heavy burden of having to help take care of her family. In the interests of her meal ticket, sister discouraged me from marrying, saying this and that girl wasn't good enough for me to marry. Should I take the initiative and move to my own quarters, and let my sister's family shift for itself, and arrange to live within its own means, and not depend on me?

AN ABUSED BROTHER."

If you haven't done so, please move from these selfish and unappreciative people without loss of time. I've had a good many letters like yours, and wonder how many men are martyrs to this type of parasitical family. Patient, long-suffering bachelor brothers and spinster sisters who never marry because they have a ready-made family foisted upon them should revolt.

I shall probably be called a brutal person for saying anything at all against these parasitical domestic relations. But I think everyone is entitled to a life of his own, no matter which member of the family had made a bad marriage, and many of these limp relatives who have been forced to stand on their own feet have really done very well for themselves when the prop has been withdrawn.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Jan. 13.

Unusually strenuous and aggressive operations of major importance dominate this day, according to a highly stimulating influence from actuating planets. There may be surprising or unexpected angles to cope with, as well as opposition from high places and a call for funds and outlay far beyond that originally expected. But indomitable force and persistency should bring success.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an excellent opportunity for projecting and promoting very ambitious and significant programs, despite definite antagonism or want of co-operation from those in high places as well as from public or group intersts.

A child born on this day may have great force and energy, with ingenuity and skill, as well as a will to win.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Big Dollars, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Posture Improves Health

By MME. QUI VIVE

Some day when you are waiting for a bus or street car, make it your business to observe the way your fellow sisters walk. You'll be surprised. You wouldn't believe there were so many ways of getting places on the hoof. If in fifteen minutes or even half an hour you see a woman who locomotes beautifully you are in luck. It is like finding a four-leafed clover.

You will, no doubt, see the scurrier. Her head is an advance of her body as if she were a battering ram, going to butt through the crowd. She darts here and there, skips ahead of motor traffic at the risk of her life. She may not be in a hurry. That's just the way she likes to act. She is highly energized, does everything that way, using up her strength unnecessarily. Her face is tense, eyes sharp and keen.

In contrast we have the saunterer who is just too plain lazy to pick up her feet and walk. She takes on weight every year, laments loudly about the loss of her waistline. If she would knuckle down to brisk, correct walking she'd get rid of her extra weight.

And don't you love the young lady who lopes like a lanky man? She takes long strides, swings her arms violently. Right after her may come the girl who toddles. Little short steps. She thinks she's cute. During your survey it may be your privilege but not your pleasure, to observe the commanding presence of a dominating woman who pounds down on her heels every step she takes.

You can tell a lot about character by observing the manner of walking. People who progress very gingerly on their toes have a sneaky appearance. Hip swingers are your beauty editor's pet peeve. They are usually exhibitionists, out to attract attention. We have noticed that some of these have figures that would not qualify in a contest of bathing beauties. Is it that they love their fat, want to display it? We don't know, but we have our suspicions.

Shoulder swinging isn't as conspicuous as hip swinging, but there is no sense in it. Shoulder swingers seldom point their toes straight ahead, as they should. They point them outward.

For the sake of health and self-respect one should carry the body splendidly, move gracefully. When walking the head should be balanced, the chest lifted, the abdominal muscles held flat. The legs should swing from the hips; the knees must not buckle.

One looks vibrant, alive, in a cheerful state of mind. Slouchy postures is the attitude of despair, it is one that is assumed by the victim of an inferiority complex.

Brisk walking brings rewards in the form of good digestion, normal circulation, colorful complexion.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

I was on my feet in an instant, running to the door with Mary beside me. I put out my arm and pushed her back, then opened the door to the length of the chain.

As I had expected, Stephen Redfield stood swaying at the door. His eyes bloodshot, his face distorted with anger, his hair disheveled, his clothes looking as if he had slept in them, he was a fearsome object.

He started in astonishment as he saw me, but evidently was too far gone in emotional anger to show the exaggerated respect with which he usually treats me, as author of the play in which he appears and because of my close ties with Philip Veritztn, the famous impresario who produced it.

Redfield Rebuffed.

"You here?" he snapped rudely: "then where is Mary?"

"She is here," I said coldly.

"Then let me in quickly," he demanded. "I've got to see her."

With a hand behind me I frantically signaled Mary to go into the bedroom and lock the door, and kept my ears open to hear the key click in the lock.

"You are mistaken, Mr. Redfield," I said coolly. "It is not necessary that you see her. Indeed, in your present mood I think it would be most inadvisable for me to let you talk to her."

Then the click of the key sounded and I let my voice thaw a little.

"However," I said, "you appear to be in great distress, so I will listen to whatever you have to say. Then if you can control your agitation, I may let you talk to her."

Drops His Bluster.

"Control myself," he said loudly. "If you saw everything you had worked for being snatched away from you, could you control yourself?"

"Then," I said, starting slowly to swing the door shut, "I have nothing more to say."

His change from bluster to fawning was both pitiable and disgusting.

"I—I am sorry," he said. "Please let me come in, Mrs. Graham."

As I began to fumble with the chain, Winters, following my instructions, came so silently behind the actor that they were both in the room, and I had the chain up again, before Redfield saw the guard.

"Who is this?" he demanded in astonishment, and I saw him swiftly appraise the powerfully-built frame of Winters.

"Do not speak to me like that again," I said. "This is Mr. Winters, Mr. Redfield," then hurried on. "Mr. Winters, will you please sit over there," indicating a chair at the far side of the room, "and Mr. Redfield, please sit down here."

As I shoved forward his chair and sat down opposite, Redfield looked from Winters to me, then gingerly lowered himself into his chair.

Secrecy Promised.

"Mrs. Graham!" he burst out after a momentary silence, "I cannot talk to Mary before a stranger, or even before you. I must see her alone!"

"I am sorry," I said inflexibly, "but that is impossible. I can assure you, however, that if you speak of things that concern only you and Mary, Mr. Winters will forget what he hears as soon as he hears it. You need not fear that he will ever repeat anything you say, and if what you say entails no harm or anxiety to Mary, I also will keep silence."

He was staring at me in bewilderment, his eyes stormily resentful, and I gave him an ultimatum.

"If you wish to talk to Mary under these circumstances," I said, "I will call her. Otherwise I must ask you to let Mr. Winters escort you into the corridor."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

CLEAR THE SUIT FIRST

Ordinarily, when you have two good suits—the trumps and a side one—it is best to get the defenders out of trumps first and then work on your other suit. But there are times when it is necessary to clear the other suit as soon as you can, or you will find yourself blocked in the dummy and unable to use the good cards which you have established.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Dbl
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

North's raise of hearts, with only three cards of the suit, was thoroughly sound, as his partner could have had no good reason to bid immediately over the double unless he had at least a five-card suit, and probably length also in diamonds, together with spade shortage, giving him a desire to shut out a spade response to the double.

It was too bad South got involved in the play, after his good bidding. West led the spade 2 to the K, then South ruffed the A and cleared trumps with the K, Q and A. Next the diamond 2 to the Q fell to the A and East returned another spade, compelling a second ruff by South, with his final trump. Now it dawned on him too late that when he led to the diamond K, the suit was blocked. Unable to get back to his hand except by leading a club toward the Q, he had to watch East take it with the K and then lead to the spade Q for the setting trick.

All that South had to do, after taking the second trick, was lead diamonds before trumps. Even if East, after winning with his A, made South ruff again, the latter could have used the third round of trumps as a re-entry to his own hand to run the diamonds after getting the K out of the way.

Apple Crisp Nutritious, Economical

By BETSY NEWMAN

I think I have suggested the usefulness of apples in our daily menus before in this column. Apples are always with us—except in the middle or early summer, and they are usually fairly inexpensive. If you live in the country you probably got all you wanted for the effort of picking them, or at least at "drastically reduced prices." I'll give you some recipes that may suggest a menu for today.

Today's Menu.

Cube Steaks, Broiled
Baked Sweet Potatoes
Stewed Tomatoes
Mixed Green Salad
Honey Apple Crisp or
Apple Sauce Cake
Hot Beverage

Honey Apple Crisp.

4½ cups sliced apples
4 Tbsps. sugar
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
½ cup honey
½ cup flour
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup butter
¼ cup walnuts

Pare, core and slice apples into shallow buttered baking dish, sprinkle on sugar and lemon juice and pour on honey. Mix chopped nuts, flour, brown sugar, salt and work in butter as for making biscuits, making a crumbly mixture. Spread evenly over apples and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 30 or 40 minutes, or until apples are tender and crust is crisp and brown. Serve plain or with cream, plain or whipped.

Apple Sauce Cake.

2½ cups flour
½ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. salt
½ cup butter or other fat
1 cup sugar
1 cup thick, smooth, unsweetened apple sauce
½ cup raisins
¼ cup nut meats

Sift flour, measure and sift one-half cup over raisins and nut meats, sift rest with spices, soda and salt. Cream fat, add sugar, gradually blending it in well. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture, then stir in raisins and nut meats. Turn into greased pan and bake at 300 to 325 degrees F. for 1 hour, or until cake shrinks from sides of pan.

SET UP $10,000 MORE IN SHELBY APPROPRIATION

Council Approves Ordinance to Provide $536,888 For City Government.

SHELBY — With one change, city council approved the annual appropriation ordinance setting up $536,888.62 for operation of the city government, municipal light and water companies and bond retirement in 1943 as read by Finance Director Chester P. Monn during the adjourned session Monday night.

Drawn up by Finance Director Monn with the aid of the various department heads, the ordinance is approximately $10,935 larger than the $525,935.63 set up in appropriations for 1942.

The general fund for operation of municipal government had $97,582.03 as compared with $87,400.74 set up for 1942.

Although the motor vehicle and gasoline tax receipts are expected to be down this year, an increase in valuation of real estate set at $700,000 last year will give the city a larger amount of revenue for the coming year, it was said.

Increases were set up in most funds to provide for the average $10-a-month pay raise granted to city employes which goes into effect on Feb. 1.

During the discussion, Mayor W. R. Morris told council that the city was not anticipating purchasing a new police cruiser this year. A total of $18,200 was set up for the police department for the coming year as compared with $17,750 for the previous year.

The fire department fund was set at $22,232.03 as compared with $20,765.74 for 1942.

A new fund was added to civilian defense. It was $375 for the part time pay of the civilian defense clerk. A total of $1,075 was set up for war work.

ASHLAND JURY FREES TRUCKER

Refuses to Convict Ruggles Man For Operating Without State License.

ASHLAND — Merle Swope of near Ruggles was free today of charges of operating a truck for hire without a P.U.C.O. license, a common pleas jury having rendered a verdict of not guilty at the close of the trial late Monday afternoon.

The trial was the second for Swope, a jury having disagreed some weeks ago after hearing the testimony.

Charges brought against Swope by the state public utilities commission alleged that he had charged Mrs. Rose Robinson for moving her household furniture from a farm to Savannah when he did not possess a P.U.C.O. license entitling him to make a charge. Mrs. Robinson had notified the commission when Swope allegedly charged her what she felt was an excessive amount for the moving work. Swope contended in his testimony that Mrs. Robinson had presented him with money as a "gift" after he had moved the furniture for her in his truck.

Jury members for the trial included Rhea A. Emmons, Esther Moneysmith, Charles Rush, Charlotte Dunn, Lou Campbell, Walter Bricker, G. L. Bohnart, Florence Ewing, G. C. Reaser, Rheva Crone, E. F. Leininger and Fern Nelson.

So many changes have been made in Mansfield high school's basketball schedule since the season opened, Coach Vern Hoffman believes that merchants who have been displaying the big poster schedules will be doing fans a real service by correcting the program for the remainder of the winter's campaign.

And for the benefit of the merchants who would like to compare their posters with the schedule as it now stands, here's the dope:

Jan. 12—Ashland.
Jan. 15—at New Philadelphia.
Jan. 22—at Norwalk.
Jan. 23—Youngstown Chaney.
Jan. 26—at Mt. Vernon.
Jan. 30—Bellevue.
Feb. 2—at Ashland.
Feb. 5—at Fremont.
Feb. 9—Springfield.
Feb. 13—at Zanesville.
Feb. 19—at Massillon.
Feb. 26—Canton McKinley.
Mar. 4-5-11-12—Tournament.

The final dates on that schedule have Hoffman a bit interested. The record doesn't indicate that the Tygers would go far in the tournament, but Hoffman would like to see that they don't have to go too far TO the tournament.

At a recent meeting, representatives of the schools in the district tourney tentatively agreed to give the joust to Bellevue as the most central point in the district, eliminating mileage for schools on the outer edge of the loop.

Now Fremont is making a determined bid for the tourney, which would mean an additional 22 miles, according to Hoffman, in traveling distance for Mansfield, Ashland, Willard and Norwalk.

Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets must have set something of an N. C. O. league non-scoring record the other night while they were being trimmed by Shelby on the Jacket flor

They went 17½ straight minutes without scoring a single point, the goose-egg streak including three minutes of the first period, all eight of the second quarter, and six and a half minutes of the third stanza.

Those Canton McKinley Bulldogs must really have it this winter. In beating Massillon the other evening, Ernie Parks got 13 points, Bill Cook 12, and Dale Haverstock 11. That's an evenly balanced offense.

Walt Weimer, the old Madison Ram who did a bit of fullbacking last fall for the Ohio State freshman team, is reported anticipating an early call to army service, and for that reason did not return to school for the winter term.

Among other Buck freshmen awaiting the army call are Joe Whisler, the great fullback from Willard, and Tommy Phillips, sensational passing phenom from Berea.

Canton McKinley gridders Jack Crider and George Schuster are in the same category.

Hall of Fame Has No Third Baseman Yet.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK — (AP) — Although baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown has enshrined 26 of the game's immortals it still lacks a third baseman. It finally has fired at least one man to action.

Bob Stedler, veteran sports editor of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Evening News, opened a formal campaign this week to bring about the election of his fellow townsman, James J. (Jimmy) Collins, famous third baseman of the 1890's and early 1900's.

In the opinion of Stedler, the comparative youngsters who are now writing baseball and whose votes select the stars for places in the Hall of Fame, should have someone call their attention to the merits of a standout whom they never saw.

He has circularized all members of the Baseball Writers Association of America in recent days to point out Collins. The spotlight showed many qualifications.

Collins played 19 years in the big leagues — with the Boston Braves and Red Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics — and in Stedler's judgment revolutionized the art of guarding the "hot corner." While with the Boston Nations he was the first third baseman to stop the deadly bunting game of the Baltimore Orioles, led by McGraw, Keeler and Jennings.

During his career he was the leading fielder at his position in both the National and American leagues and in five seasons he batted well over .300. In 1918, when his batting average was .337, he collected 15 home runs to lead the National league. They had a dead ball in those days.

* * *

Collins switched to the newly formed American league in 1901 as manager of the Red Sox and in 1903 ran away with the pennant. The Red Sox were so great that fans wanted to see them matched against the mighty Pittsburgh Pirates who had dominated the National league three straight years.

The result was the first world series and Collins' Red Sox won it after losing three of the first four games.

After ending his baseball career at Providence in the Eastern league in 1911 Collins settled down in Buffalo and now is employed by the city's park commission.

TAKE SLEIGH RIDE TO BASKETBALL GAME

So they hitched old Dobbin to the sleigh.

Adults may worry about gas rationing and transportation problems, but when high school kids want to go see a basketball game, there are no problems. They go by the best means possible.

With Madison high school Rams playing at Lucas last night, Max McFarland hitched his team to a sleigh, piled 28 Madison rooters from Washington township into the sleigh and started for Lucas. They had snow on the road for most of the four-mile trip, and the boys and girls kept warm enough with hay and blankets.

Rams Win On Late Rally

Last Quarter Spurt Defeats Lucas Cubs.

Finding a late eye for the hoop, Madison high school's Rams romped away from the Lucas Cubs in the last quarter of a non-league basketball at Lucas last night 48-28.

But for three quarters it was a ball game, with Madison edging to a 10 8 first period margin, and still leading by only two points at the half, 19-17.

The Rams boosted the margin by only three points in the third period which ended with the score 29-24. For those three periods it was a wild and woolly ball game, but the Rams started rolling in the final stanza, while the Cubs were held to one bucket and a pair of free tosses, Madison taking a 19-4 margin in the fourth quarter.

Lucas caught Madison in a hot streak, the Rams posting a shooting average of 29 per cent. in comparison with their marks of 13 and 18 per cent made in league tilts thus far. Also the Rams made 60 per cent of their free tosses.

Lucas and Madison are still undefeated in Richland county league play, pushing Butler for the league lead. Madison plays at Butler Friday night, while the Cubs meet Ontario at Lucas.

A switch was announced today in the Union-Bellville schedule, with Union playing at Bellville Friday night in a non-league game, while Bellville will return to Union for a league tilt Feb. 16. Union plays Savannah at Union tonight.

In a preliminary tilt last night Madison reserves edged Lucas 23-20, with an 11-point rally in the last quarter.

Grace Gospel Meets Test

Tangles With Lutheran Five In Loop Battle.

The Grace Gospel-First Lutheran tilt holds the spotlight tonight, as the Senior Church League basketeers continue play with a four game program on tap.

Undefeated in four games, and tied with St. Johns for first place, the Gospel five will meet its stiffest test of the season in the Lutheran quintet.

The game should develop into a high scoring affair, with the Gospel team boasting the loops high scorer in Pfaff and the Lutherans having such crack shots as Martin Bayer and Howard Poole, who also perform with Westinghouse in the City League.

Little will be at stake in the other games. The lowly Congregational and Baptist teams, each beaten four times in league play, raise the curtain at 7 o'clock.

Central Methodist, tied with Lutheran for second place, should have little trouble in disposing of St. Matthew's thrice beaten outfit in the second game.

St. John's tackle celler-dwelling Episcopal in the third tilt, with the crucial Gospel-Lutheran tilt closing the activity at 9.15.

APPLESEED MEETS Y JUNIORS AGAIN

Johnny Appleseed eagers will face the Y. M. C. A. Juniors Thursday night in the Appleseed gym. It will be the second meeting of the two teams, Appleseed winning the first game, 52 to 45.

In a preliminary contest scheduled for 7 o'clock, the Appleseed Reserves will battle the Junior seconds.

Windows Opened, But Business Closed

Ban on pleasure driving of automobiles along the eastern seaboard, causing the suspension of racing in Florida, makes this a common sight at Tropical park, Miami, these days. There are plenty of mutuel windows, but there are no bettors. A few employes stand at one window, discussing the situation.

Doherty Ties For Second

Carl Wiseman Sweeps Club League Honors.

Doherty Fraternity moved into a second place tie with Tracy-Avery in the Club bowling league by scoring a shutout victory over Liederkranz last night at Colony alley while the Grovers were winning a 2-1 decision over Co Operative club. League leading Mansfield Savings Bank dropped a 1-2 match to Lumbermens.

Carl Wiseman took scoring honors with a 626 total and a 256 game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—George Corcoran, the Greensboro, N. C., golf pro, suggests that golf clubs should be classified as health clubs rather than as amusement centers now that easterners aren't allowed to use gas for amusement. . . . George figures that most golfers are hunting exercise and relaxation rather than entertainment. . . . Gas rationing, too, is a reason why 88 fewer teams entered the Iowa state high school boys' basketball tournament this year, cutting the total to only 835.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Bob Paulos, Alton (Ill.) Evening Telegraph: "Dolph Camilli's decision to remain on his California ranch is hardly anything new to talk about. The first baseman has been raising beefs as a Dodger for the past several seasons."

STOPPED IN ONE.

When the Maryland U. and Coast Guard academy boxing teams clashed the other night, the coaches picked Eddie La Fond, whose Catholic U. team meets both later in the season, as the referee. . . . They figured it was a smart move because (a) Eddie is a good referee, who also works in pro fights, and (b) he wouldn't be able to do much scouting because he couldn't take notes while working.

Ashland Preps For Fan Boards

Ashland high school cagers will risk their five-game winning streak against Mansfield's Tygers and the new type fan-shaped backboards tonight at Senior high gym.

It will be Ashland's first game with the new back-boards, and Coach A. L. Bruckner has been training his charges by blocking out the boards in the Ashland gym to resemble the shape of the fans.

Bruckner also has been training his boys to meet a man-for-man, defense, but the Tygers are expected to use their customary shifting zone defense, which sometimes resembles a man-for-man.

* * *

The Ashland coach and team saw Mansfield beat Akron West recently and were impressed by the Tygers.

A preliminary game is booked at 7 o'clock tonight, and the main game at 8:15.

The present division of the world into five climatic zones was established in 640 B. C.

PLAN TO OPERATE RACE TRACKS FLOPS

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—A plan to run Miami's two horse race tracks on a cooperative basis fell through when officials of Hialeah and Tropical parks frowned on the proposal.

The idea, advanced yesterday by Allen T. Simmons of Akron, O., was to offer purses varying according to the betting volume, with horsemen donating their services in operating the plants.

Hoosiers Beat Bucks Again

Ohio State Swamped 61-31 In Second Game.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (INS) — Ohio State's basketeers today again were on the losing end of a blistering walloping by Indiana's Hoosiers, being taken to the tune of 61 to 31 in last night's tilt.

It was the second victory of the Hoosiers over the Buckeyes in three nights, Indiana having won Saturday's game 45 37.

Although Ohio State took the lead 9 to 8 in the opening minutes, Indiana held the Buckeyes to the lower tallies after the first seven minutes of play. The Hoosiers held a 35 to 16 lead at half time.

The last half showed Indiana continuing the pace with Coach Branch McCracken freely using reserves.

Ohio State got only 12 out of 85 field goal attempts while Indiana made good 26 out of 79 tries. Indiana's leading scorer was Ralph Hamilton with six field goals and one free throw.

The Buckeyes' next game is with Chicago in Columbus on Jan. 18.

Rockets Score Eighth Win

Toledo Downs Marshall 57-41 at Huntington.

(By Associated Press)

Toledo University's Rockets, a perennial powerhouse in Ohio basketball circles, chalked up their eighth win of the season last night to remain in the thick of the current battle for Buckeye cage honors.

The Rockets, playing at Huntington, W. Va., downed Marshall College 57 to 41 to give them a season record of eight victories and one defeat and fifth place in the Ohio title chase.

Other leaders in the state championship struggle, all idle last night, are undefeated. They are: Bowling Green with 10 victories, Mount Vernon with five, Capital with 8 and Wilberforce with one.

Two other Ohio quintets found out-of-state courts less to their liking than did Toledo. Ohio State, playing at Bloomington, Ind., suffered its second straight Western Conference loss to Indiana University 61 to 31. Rio Grande bowed to West Virginia Tech, 52 to 37, at Montgomery.

In the only "home" game of the evening Kent State's Golden Flashes whipped Ashland 64 to 29.

FLEMING RATES 2-B

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Les Fleming, Indians' first baseman, has been classified 2-B by his draft board, and may be available to the ball club at least the first part of the season, he reported in a letter to Roger Peckinpaugh, vice-president of the ball club. Fleming is in Beaumont, Tex., working in a ship-building plant.

JUST AN EVENING GOWN

SAN JOSE, Cal.—(U.P.)—Patrolman Curtis Bishop was rushed at 4 a. m. to Fourth street, when a woman excitedly telephoned the police that another woman dressed in a "flimsy nightgown" was promenading the street. The officer, after discreet investigation and questioning, decided that it was only an evening gown and that the wearer was walking home from a party.

Statisticians estimate that illness and premature death in the United States result in an economic loss of ten billion dollars annually.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—You may not think Betty Grable is the greatest actress in town, but you've got to like Betty because she's the first one to say what kind of an actress she is.

It's hard to see Betty these days. Betty is making a movie called "Coney Island" and she's up to her golden hair in work. When she isn't working, she's saying howdy to visitors who are always asking to see "the Betty Grable set."

Coons

I caught Betty between scenes and between howdys. "I'm tired," she said. But I can't kick the more I work the better I feel. Must be something wrong with me."

'Coney Island' has been going on for umpteen weeks now.

"It's pretty hard," says Betty, because I'm really tired but if I weren't working I'd be bored stiff. Working is not the same as it was when the good actresses. When they got a day off it's theirs. When I get one, it's more rehearsal for dancing or fittings for wardrobe. I've got 28 different costumes in this picture.

The good actresses. The way Betty said it and the way Betty went up on that stage to rehearse a complicated dance routine with full chorus behind her, made you wonder whether being a "good actress" deserved all the unconscious reverence Betty Grable, the song-and-dance girl, put into the expression.

Betty, as you know if you follow the Hollywood gossip, is the girl friend of George Raft. Betty and George were supposed to do a movie together, "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," it was called.

But they won't. George who is one of Hollywood's champion turner-downers turned it down.

"He was right," said Betty. "The part wasn't for him. The part was a fast-talking newspaper man and you know George isn't a fast talker. You know what we'd like to do together." That play, Burlesque. That would be right for George and I could go into my dance. Greg Ratoff is looking into getting it for us and I hope he does.

Betty's the kind of gal who goes on a U. S. O. camp show four times between pictures. She's in a train at a station and a movie photographer wants a picture. He calls out to a bunch of sailors—he wants some gobs in the picture, too, and he says: "Step up, boys, and maybe Betty'll give you an autograph."

And Betty, turning white, calls the lensman aside and says: "Don't EVER do that to me again, please!"

"Do WHAT to you?" he asks.

"Talk about giving my autograph," says Betty. "How do I know anybody WANTS my autograph? Suppose they DON'T want it, then what?"

15,000 COAL STRIKERS TOLD TO RESUME JOBS

Anthracite Committee Issues Order To Men Who Protest Boost in Union Dues.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — An order was dispatched today to 15,000 wildcat coal strikers in the northeastern Pennsylvania anthracite fields to return to work immediately.

The order was issued by an anthracite committee of 12, composed of six operator and six miner representatives including John L. Lewis, in telegrams to all United Mine Workers local unions in the coal fields. The wildcat strike of hard coal miners, in protest over a fifty cents a month increase in union dues has threatened a serious shortage of anthracite in the eastern seaboard area, already plagued by the critical shortage of fuel oil.

The telegrams stressed that the work stoppage "is a violation of an obligation to the government on the national policy not to strike for the duration of the war," and urged that "all matters in dispute be taken up in the orderly and democratic way for consideration and adjustment."

The anthracite committee, before adjourning their conference here last night, also sent a telegram to Harold L. Ickes, federal solid fuel administrator, declaring that it was doing everything in its power to end the work stoppage which is now in its 13th day.

The war labor board previously had issued an appeal to the striking miners for immediate resumption of work. Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the UMW expressed hope that the committee's telegram would bring the strikers back to the pits and bring about production of sufficient coal to meet the needs of the country's war effort.

Meanwhile the threat of a more widespread strike on Friday hung over the coal fields. Some 5,000 miners who returned to work in the last few days in response to government pleas asserted they were doing so in anticipation that a $2-a-day wage increase would be granted by Friday.

TOURS PLANTS

Stone, Defense Director, Talks on Dimout, Blackout Tests.

Ralph H. Stone, state defense director, and Major Charles Miller, liaison officer for the Ohio defense council, were to explain industrial blackout requirements at a meeting today in the Westinghouse cafeteria of management and plant protection officials of all Mansfield munitions factories.

Following a luncheon, Stone and Major Miller, accompanied by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator for Mansfield, and key leaders in the local defense organization, were to make a tour of the plants to determine their needs in order to comply with forthcoming dimout and blackout tests.

In a recent visit here Colonel William Myers deplored the inadequacy of blackout provisions and warned of the strong likelihood of eventual attempts by Axis air forces to bomb interior United States.

CHURCH BLAZE TOPS FIRE LOSS

Congregational Fire Accounts For All But $16,381 of $257,381 Loss In '42.

Destruction of the First Congregational church with a loss of $241,000 accounted for all but $16,381 of the 1942 fire losses in Mansfield, according to the annual report of Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger, submitted to Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff today.

The 1942 total of $257,381 was reported in 285 alarms answered by fire crews from the four engine houses and compared to 270 calls in 1941 with a reported loss of $110,740. In the other 234 calls last year the loss was held to an unprecedented minimum as compared to any previous year, Seeburger said.

Losses in 1942 were covered by $167,522 insurance, leaving an absolute loss of $89,859, the report says.

Seeburger said today that new aerial equipment is under construction at the Seagraves plant in Columbus and that the city will acquire the apparatus under recent council legislation unless some other community's priority is recognized over Mansfield's requisition.

Proposed improvements of No. 4 engine house may be carried out in 1943 although Seeburger is doubtful. He sees little hope of acquiring needed fire hose and other small equipment during the war but bids will be received Jan. 29 by Director Wolff for furnishing 10 new fire hydrants to be installed in various sections of the city.

Hints Diplomatic Or Military Blow In Store For Axis

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Recent state department conferences with members of the senate and house foreign relations committees brought from Chairman Sol Bloom of the house group a broad hint today of a possible new diplomatic or military thrust at the Axis.

The conferees, who met most recently with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles last Saturday, have been pledged to secrecy, and Bloom's explanation was this:

"When you're going to take a punch at someone, you don't telegraph it.

If you telegraph the punch, you either don't land it or you get hit first."

TAKES OWN LIFE

Former Mansfielder Was Barred By Army For Ill Health.

Carl Macken, 18, former proof boy in The News-Journal advertising department, ended his life at his parents home in Toledo yesterday after ill health had prevented his induction into the army. A brother, Dale, formerly was a solicitor in the classified advertising department. Carl moved to Toledo from Mansfield in September, 1941.

Toledo firemen found the body in a bed after a neighbor smelled smoke caused by smoundering bedclothes which were ignited by the discharge of a pistol. Carl was the son of Ernest Macken, a police captain at Marion.

ADMITS EMBEZZLEMENT

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Mrs. Alice Dillon of Cortland pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $5,200 from the Cortland Savings and Banking company, where she was a teller and bookkeeper, but Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed placed the woman on probation because of her nine-month-old daughter.

DAIRYMEN SEE LITTLE HOPE FOR RELIEF FROM BUTTER SHORTAGE

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Little, if any, immediate relief in the present butter shortage is expected by dairy men, they said today, although the country has passed by the point of lowest production and output will expand from now until July.

Butter is rationed voluntarily in practically all sections of the nation, but no official system under government control has been announced. Dairy men said they did not know when, if ever, government rationing would be introduced.

November and December are ordinarily the poorest months for making butter, and that was the case in 1942. Output normally expands in January and continues to increase until peak production is reached in June. Then it tapers off to the November-December low.

Although more butter is being manufactured now than in December, dairy men said that, even under normal circumstances, production does not catch up with consumption until around the middle of April. From that time to October, they added, there usually is more butter on hand than the country can eat and the surplus is put into cold storage.

These cold storage supplies are utilized during months of low production to fill the gap between production and consumption.

Considering the fact that 30 per cent of production each month is set aside for military and lend-lease needs, dairy men said it would be unlikely that the total available for civilians would be sufficient even in the heaviest production months.

GETS SENTENCE

Defendant To Serve 2 Terms In Ohio Penitentiary.

Cases of two men named in grand jury indictments were disposed of in common pleas court yesterday with one receiving sentences on two charges and the other placed on probation for two years.

Judge C. H. Huston sentenced W. L. Timmons alsia Bus Anderson to terms of one to 20 years in the state penitentiary for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and forgery. Terms will run concurrently.

Louis Layton, who was arrested Thursday in Upper Sandusky on a "secret" indictment charging grand larceny, was placed on probation for two years.

Sentencing of Anderson had been delayed pending word from the commanding officer of the army camp where he had served. He was on furlough from the camp at the time the crimes were committed.

IDENTIFIED

North Woodbury Resident Found Sufering From Exposure.

FREDERICKTOWN — A man who was found unconscious Sunday morning along a country road northwest of Waterford had been identified today as Henry Sherman of North Woodbury. He was suffering from exposure and is in the Mt. Vernon Hospital-Sanatorium.

The driver of a Mansfield dairy truck found Sherman, who is 35, at the side of the road. Snow partly covered the man's body. The driver took him to a nearby farm home. Sherman was still unconscious today.

LOOKS LIKELY

Confirmation of Rutledge and Brown Appointments Seen.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Senate confirmation of President Roosevelt's nomination of Judge Wiley B. Rutledge to be justice of the supreme court, former Sen. Prentiss Brown of Michigan to be price administrator and former Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma to be a member of the civil aeronautics authority today appeared likely.

Sen. Van Nuys (D) Ind., chairman of the judiciary committee, named Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., as chairman of a subcommittee of hold a hearing on the Rutledge nomination.

While some far western senators appeared disappointed that the new justice to succeed James F. Byrnes was not chosen from that area, no immediate opposition to Rutledge was voiced.

Laff-a-Day

"I'm just scaring him. He has the hiccoughs!"

Echoes of a club organized back in 1928 at the time of a Y. M. C. A. financial campaign and then inactive for a number of years were heard today as $42.50 collected in dues were turned over to the Y. M. C. A. as a special boys' work. Known as the Spizarinktum Stars the club was organized by 200 campaign workers because they had so much fun during the campaign and carried their part in the drive to such great success. The balance turned over to the Y. M. C. A. has been a bank deposit for a long time. P. H. Ober headed the club as president. Charles Schultz was secretary and W. C. Mansfield was treasurer.

Services of one of the two trustees who have been helping to keep the Richland county jail in order in recent months were being missed today. Upon a relative's payment of the remainder of his fine, the local man was released yesterday. He had served since August on a sentence and fine imposed for driving while intoxicated. In that time, with another trusted inmate, he had kept the sheriff's office a model of cleanliness and order, and in recent weeks had been privileged to do other errands of trustworthy nature. His ambition for the future, he told the officers, was to get a job at Pearl Harbor, far away from former associates.

The "Jeeps" and "Peeps," teams organized at Brinkerhoff school to compete in weekly defense stamp sales, felt pretty proud of their record scored last Friday after they compared it with other schools. From 12 to 1:15 p. m. the pupils bought $345.65 worth of stamps and bonds and by exactly 2 p. m. had the money safe in the bank. The 130 "Peeps" were especially thrilled since it was the first time since last Sept. 18, when the sales started, that they managed to beat the "Jeeps." From that September date through Jan. 8 the school has purchased $1,964.65 in defense security, Principal C. C. Secrist said.

GUNMAN KILLS DUCE ENEMY IN NEW YORK

Shoots Down Publisher of Anti-Mussolini Paper on Dimmed-Out Street.

NEW YORK—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and police searched today for fanatical Italian Fascists suspected of assassinating Carlo Tresca, 68, veteran radical and impassioned enemy of Benito Mussolini.

Tresca was shot down on Fifth avenue last night, a few feet from the office of the bitterly anti-Fascist newspaper Il Martello (The Hammer), which he published with a friend, Guiseppe Callabi.

As Tresca and Callabi turned into Fifth avenue, from West 15th street, an automobile was at the intersection, waiting. The avenue was in semi-darkness, because of the dim-out. There was almost no traffic and very few pedestrians.

A man stepped from the automobile and fired four times. Three shots went wild, but a fourth pierced Tresca's head. Tresca fell in the gutter. The black sombero he always wore rolled off. He was dead when Callabi bent over him. The assassin leaped back into the automobile, and it roared away.

As soon as the FBI learned who the victim was, they entered the hunt. They read and re-read the next issue of the newspaper. It was thought likely that he had threatened to expose Fascists in New York who have escaped the FBI round-up of dangerous aliens.

Callabi ducked for cover when the shooting started and was unable to give a good description of the killer. Police found a loaded .38 caliber revolver near where Tresca fell, but the slug that killed him was of .32 caliber.

Tresca's widow and her two sons by a former marriage, Harrison, 26, and George, 22, were taken to police headquarters and questioned.

The suspicion that Fascists had killed him immediately arose. He had been a bitter foe of Mussolini for 20 years. Fascists had threatened to kill him 10 years ago.

Plans To Appeal Million Dollar Road Suit Ruling

COLUMBUS —(AP)— S. A. Horvitz, Cleveland contractor, filed notice yesterday of intention to appeal a common pleas court decision allowing work to proceed on the $1,334,680 Willow Freeway project in Cuyahoga county.

Horvitz' request for an injunction against State Highway Director Hal G. Sours and the Freeway contract holders, the Lombardo Brothers Construction company, was denied recently by Judge Joseph M. Clifford.

Horvitz contended the Lombardo firm wrongfully obtained the contract. He accused a Lombardo employe of trying to learn whether Horvitz' company was bidding on the job and the size of the bid.

Judge Clifford held, however, that evidence failed to show any violation of the law, and denied Horvitz' motion for a new trial. The appeal bond was set at $130,000.

STALL WORK ON U. S. SUB PARTS

Only Seven of 49 Employes Report to Jobs at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Work at the Carey Machine company, makers of vital submarine parts, was almost at a standstill this morning as only seven of 49 employes entered the plant to work on the night shift. James P. Foley, of the police relations bureau, reported that picketing employes were members of the CIO United Steelworkers of America.

Strikers did not molest those who reported for work—members of the American Workers union. But the CIO group members held out for a 15 per cent wage increase, which had been turned down by P. A. Rosebloom, vice-president in charge of operations.

as summer, and this year shmans rose to the dignity ing a cabin of their own at ake; one hundred dollars' or two months, but Dina , and Dina was sure it was it.

n they loaded the car and the family packed itself Dina and Art took up the elegation.

as hot July weather as they drove up past the flat river country and into the mountains; this was sheer delight and adventure, and Dina's mood of excitement and joy affected all the rest.

"Oh, I wish everybody in the world could have as much fun as we do!" Dina said when they had found the brown cottage perched on a great waterside outbreak of boulders and had investigated its three bunk-lined rooms and started their first fire in the great black-mouthed chimney.

The Cashmans were into the water like fish restored to their natural element. It was only fifty feet to the great flat-topped rock still baking in the sunlight, but the Cashmans were not experienced swimmers and were glad to get there.

They lay like three seals, panting and occasionally shouting a warning to the three small sisters who were busily splashing, digging, and shouting with a few other children on the narrow strip of beach.

Two other swimmers came up to their rock, hung there breathless for a moment, swam away again. When a third stranger was suddenly there, dragging his dripping form up to a level several feet away from them, sitting with his back toward them, they paid him no attention.

But after a moment he said, "Hello, Dina," and Dina turned with a sudden stop at her heart and looked at him.

"Andy!" she said. Art and Myrna were gone, swimming back to the shore, and the world was all to themselves, man and woman, their dripping hands together, their eyes seeing nothing but each other.

"I arrived here today," he said, "I'm over at the hotel. I thought you people wouldn't be here until late tonight. But when I saw you drive by I got out my bathing suit."

"But who told you we'd be here at all?"

"Rogers."

"You've seen him?"

"I telephoned him, night before last, from New York. And then I flew, and we had a talk today."

"From New York? But, Andy —you can stay how long?"

"I don't know. Until Sunday anyway."

"Only until Sunday!"

"That's three days."

"Yes, that's richness." Dina took off her cap, shook her mop tree Her slender long body was stretched on its side "Oh, we're talking together again," she said under her breath.

"I'm awfully glad, Dina," Andy answered seriously. "Well, what brought me was, of course, telephoning to Rogers," he added.

"Rogers doesn't know we love each other," she said quickly. "Of course he knows we're good friends," Dina amended it, "but he doesn't know about those few minutes in old Saint Mary's."

"Rogers may not know that detail, but he's known all along how things were with us."

"You think so?"

"Leave it to that old fox. Oh, yes, he wrote me about six weeks ago and asked me to come out this summer," Andy said, "but what brought it to a head yesterday was an item in the paper."

"An item in the paper?"

"Yep. To the effect that my late bride," the man went on, "was married to J. Beardsley Mackinnon last Tuesday night."

"Aline married! And to Beardy Mackinnon! But he isn't—he isn't that dull, rich, old, talkative Mr. Mackinnon who goes tarpon fishing?"

"I don't know him. But that seems to tally with what Rogers said."

"But he's—he's sixty! And he's so dull!"

"Aline felt it would be wise to marry, apparently," Andrew said noncommittally.

"I suppose he's been following her around for years, perhaps," Dina said, still amazed, "but nobody ever takes Beardy very seriously."

"And have you thought what it means to us?" the man asked.

"But of course." Her eyes were wide. "Rogers will agree to a divorce now?"

"Agree to it! I telephoned him, asked if I could see him if I flew out. Of course he suspected it was about you. Anyway, he said, 'Come ahead,' and we talked it out last night. There were tears in his eyes when he talked of you Dina. He said, 'She's earned all the love and all the happiness any woman ever had. You see that she gets it!'"

"But, Andy—" It was her anxious, little-girl look. "You see, I've just got the youngsters up here for the summer. Mama won't be up for a month yet. Donny had pneumonia and he's got to be built up, and Myrna and Art have to go back to their jobs in three weeks; they can't change their vacations now and I can't let them down. Do you think we could wait until almost September?"

"Listen, birdbrains," he said, "Where do you think you are?"

"Why, I'm at Piny Cove at Lake Tahoe."

"You're in Nevada now, innocence."

"I'm—Oh heavens, this is Nevada! Oh, I always think only of Reno. But of course I'm in Nevada!"

"You're just across the state line. I've checked it. So all you have to do is to drive over to Reno—won't take you an hour—and see Rogers' lawyer and establish your legal residence. He's George Hammersmith, and Rogers phoned him last night when we got through talking. Then six weeks from now, my darling, you and Rogers and I will drive to Reno, and all the family can come along later for the wedding."

"Oh, Andy," said Dina, "is it coming right this time?"

"It would seem so. If you could see Elmover you'd think so. All I've done is have a few fallen trees cut up for my wife's firewood next winter."

"Can you imagine a sultana or a begum with ropes of emeralds and pearls from here to that inlet?" Dina said, standing now, her young sleek figure silhouetted against the last of the warm light in the west.

"Why should I?"

"Because I want you to know that I wouldn't change places with her! Ah, you can dive," Dina said enviously as he poised himself beside her, "but I have to slide in like a baby."

"I'll teach you to dive tomorrow. We have all the tomorrows from now on," Andy reminded her.

She did not answer in words. But with a quick movement she was close to him, his arms about her, her beautiful mane of hair fallen back, her lips against his

For a long moment they strained together hungrily, as if the kiss never would be done. Then they were swimming together toward the shore.

Dina swam close to Andy. Presently she put a hand on his shoulder. It was good, even so near to the safe, shallow water, to feel him strong and steady beside her.

Your Federal Income Tax

No. 8—Who Must File A Return.

Every single person must file a Federal income tax return whose gross income for the year from all sources was $500 or more; that is, as much as $9.62 per week. Widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, are classed as single persons.

Every married person, living with husband or wife throughout the year, must file a return if his or her gross income, together with any income of the spouse, was as much as $1,200 for the year, that is, as much as $23.08 per week. If husband and wife both have income, they must both make a return Such return may be made separately, or, if they are both citizens or residents, they may make a joint return A joint return may be made by husband and wife even though one has no income, and a joint return is advisable in the case of persons, one of whom has no income, who marry during the year, since the personal exemption attributable to each spouse during the period of premarital status is allowable in a joint return.

A joint return must be signed by both husband and wife, and verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife on Form 1040, the joint personal exemption allowable ($1,200 where the married status has existed throughout the year) may be taken by either, or divided between them in any proportion agreed upon. If separate returns are filed one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which belongs to him (or her).

No person is exempt from filing a return if his gross income is equal to or greater than the amount specified above for his classification. Neither the president of the United States, nor the vice president, nor federal judges, nor members of congress, are exempt from filing returns.

Moreover, all income from whatever source, unless specifically excluded by statute, must be reported in the return. The types of income specifically exempt are listed in the instructions accompanying the return form.

A person whose gross income does not exceed $3,000, and consists wholly of salary, wages, dividends, interest or annuities, may make a simplified return on Form 1040A, in which the tax due may be readily ascertained by reference to a table contained in the form.

A husband and wife living together on July 1 of the taxable year may file separate simplified returns if the gross income of each is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3,000. A taxpayer may not, however, file a simplified return if the other spouse files a return on Form 1040.

Brothers Lost In Naval Action

These three brothers—Edward Rogers left; Charles, center, and Jack—who served in the United States navy aboard the same ship have been killed in action in a battle against the Japanese. President Roosevelt, in a letter, has extended the sympathy of the nation to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rogers of Birmingham, Ala. Anxious to revenge his older brothers is a fourth Rogers son, Hugh, age 17, who plans to join the navy as soon as he obtains parental consent.

Launch Move To Cut Absenteeism In War Industry

In the belief that "absence (from essential work) makes the war grow longer," the War Manpower commission announced today that it will launch a determined effort to reduce absenteeism in war production plants in the area.

A preliminary study of plants in this area, according to C. W. Handley, manager of the U. S. Employment service, revealed that such absences were due to the following reasons: job shopping and labor piracy, illness, lack of information as to the relation of an employe's work to the finished product, long hours and excessive overtime, wages and war-time prosperity, inadequate housing or transportation, lack of carefully planned production, women remaining at home to perform household duties, lack of proper supervision, hiring in excess of immediate needs, and an accumulation of finished goods, leading workers to assume erroneously that the plant output is not urgently needed in the war effort.

It was found that excessive drinking was a factor in only one of the 45 plants studied.

One Hundred Billion Dollars a Year

BECAUSE the word "billions" supplanted "millions" in calculation of United States government operating costs, even in the peace-time years of the Roosevelt administrations, the public mind has become so attuned to substitution of the "b" for the "m" that further expansion to "one hundred billions," as the president's budget estimate for national expenditures during the fiscal year starting next July 1, does not cause the shock which its enormity justifies.

By comparison, it is interesting to note that it took the United States government 141 years—from 1789 to 1930—to spend $100,000,000,000, including financing the War of 1812, the Mexican war, the Spanish-American war and the first World war, as well as all of the nation's official operating costs over that period.

Further information is that this amount not only dwarfs all past records of proposed expenditures by the United States but IS MORE THAN THE COMBINED ANNUAL MONEY EXPENDITURES OF ALL THE OTHER BELLIGERENTS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE WAR!

With the national debt now at $112,000,000,000, President Roosevelt foresees a rise to $210,000,000,000 by June 30, 1944, and says this will require revision of the present $125,000,000,000 limitation.

"Some persons may believe that such a program is fantastic," said the president—but it may not be the monetary phases of the program, so much as the rather casual jump to such astronomical figures, that is regarded as "fantastic."

Granted the superior position of the United States, in matters of natural resources and production facilities, it may still be wondered by what quirk of fate it has become incumbent upon the people of this country to assume a larger burden of war financing than the total of all other belligerents—and whether such a sum, if intelligently expended, is really needed to accomplish the purpose of winning the war.

The war must be won by the United Nations—that is a matter of general agreement by all Americans. Whatever the necessary costs may be, in money, sacrifices and work, these must be met. But any observer knows that war costs have been permitted to run atrociously high in this country—as compared with similar costs in other countries—and that much of this has been due to ineptitude and preferential treatment on the part of agencies of administration.

That old slogan, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute," might well be changed for present application to "Billions, if needed to win the war—but not another dollar to sustain political parasites in Washington."

Record of Faithful Service

ESTIMATES of a person are best made by those with whom he is in daily contact long enough to give opportunity for fair judgment.

Such was the experience of many Mansfielders in their association with Thomas M. Bell, and it is gratifying to have a personal impression confirmed by all of those who were in better position to know him and to judge his work in the Mansfield police department over a long term of years.

It was a younger man—Police Chief Meade K. Bates—who said of Tom Bell: "He was the best friend I ever had. . . . Tom was the most reliable and conscientious officer I've ever known. . . . His life was dedicated to the performance of duty."

Judge Kalbfleisch said of him: "Chief Bell was a true peace officer. He constantly sought the sources and causes of crime and strove diligently to prevent their execution."

Other associates expressed themselves in similar vein, both as to Tom Bell's service as a soldier in the Spanish American war and his later association with law enforcement work.

Advancing from patrolman to lieutenant, then captain and assistant chief, and finally to a year of service as chief of the department, Mr. Bell passed through a rapidly changing era of police work and demonstrated ability to adapt himself to all new conditions as they appeared.

A few words sum up his characteristic attitude in the performance of his duties: Honesty, calmness, frankness, firmness and faithfulness.

With these attributes, coupled with capability and a sincere interest in his work, it is easy to understand why Tom Bell was so highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Probing the German Mind

HENRY WALLACE and Dorothy Thompson are suggesting the "psychological disarmament of Germany." That is, disarmament by changing the German way of thinking.

Many other people have thought of that, and tried it, but they haven't got very far with it. For the German people seem to be more clannish than most of the other races. They tend to think together and act together, and believe strongly in their own superiority. There is no such individualism among them as exists among the British, French, Americans and some other races. Their tendency to think and feel together makes them often act in crises like a flock of birds—all moving mentally in the same direction at one time.

Their racial tendency to mental suggestion might make them good subjects for the "psychological disarmament" desired by their neighbors, except for the sad fact that they are disinclined to accept the views of other nations.

What the people of Germany obviously need, to get along with the world they live in, is more open-mindedness, more readiness to accept ideas and viewpoints from intelligent and wise people of other nations. But there is little evidence of such a change.

A lexicographer has been asked whether "a raise" or "an increase" in salary is correct—the question being purely hypothetical of course, as it is wages that are raised and taxes increased.

SOMEBODY'S BEEN MESSING WITH THE PORRIDGE

Chinese Still Laugh Despite War

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

CHUNGKING—China's wartime capital is one of the highest priced cities of the world and as such reflects from the rest of the country a cost of living which is staggering.

Chungking presents some exceptions, of course, because it is an ancient provincial city which had metropolitan conditions suddenly thrust upon it. This old town, which clings precariously to the precipitous sides of the mountain that lords it over the junction of the Yangtze and Chialing rivers, never was intended as the first city of the land.

Scarcity of accommodations and lack of suitable transportation facilities have forced some prices up. Still, conditions here give a fair gauge of the country's difficulties.

Life isn't easy in China these days. Though it should be said that there is sufficient food, barring many districts in Honan province where there has been a drought.

Fortunately, wages of labor have increased enough so the working man and his family, generally speaking, aren't hungry. Many business men are keeping the wolf from the door. But the poor white-collar worker, as usual, is suffering heavily. Salaries haven't moved up with the cost of living.

Chungking doesn't escape because it is the capital. On the contrary, it is, so to speak, on the firing line. Because of the lack of materials, it is likely that the plaster in your house is falling off and holes in the roof may let in rain. Your plumbing, if you have plumbing, may not work.

THE lack of transportation has created a scarcity in many things and coal, of which China has much, is one of these. Chungking government offices and public places like restaurants are forbidden to have fires, although the winter weather is raw and cold.

Gasoline is as precious as molten pearls and motor cars are few and far between. Good Samaritanism is the rule, but for the most part you just climb up and down these steep hills on your own legs.

Little luxuries like cakes are shared with all who may be in the room. That is typical throughout Chungking.

With all this, you might think the Chinese would be downhearted and rather sorry for themselves—but not so. They are as a whole about the most extraordinarily cheerful folk I've encountered, and I've traveled in maybe 50 countries or more.

They laugh a lot and it's real. Adversity may dampen their spirits temporarily, but it can't long keep away laughter, for the Chinese even can extract humor from hard knocks.

Almost anything that comes to their mills is grist, and be it old or new, they appreciate it. For instance, they still get a smile out of the story about Marco Polo. This is in the general vicnity of the parts he visited so long ago, and the tale revolves about a remark he made.

It seems Marco became annoyed at reports that his prince back home said the traveller was talking too much, whereupon Marco flashed:

"I'm Marco Polo, and I say what I damn please!"

I'm glad I came to China if for nothing else but to see these people laugh. Having experienced their irrepressible spirits, I have no fears whatever that the Japs can beat them. You can't defeat a people who have such a pronounced sense of humor as the Chinese.

Dave Boone Says:

THAT was quite a stirring war spectacle - Ed Flynn, the Democratic boss, suspended away up in mid-air between Australia and the Bronx, with the ack-ack flying all around him—he must have wondered whether to jump without a parachute or trust Roosevelt to rescue him.

New York City is furnishing the whole country with a splendid example of how not to handle the situation created by the new auto rules. Talk about gestapo methods.

The American public everywhere has responded wonderfully to Washington's first real explanation of what's wanted. Everybody comments on it. Only the community OPA chiefs have flown off the handle and got excited.

* * *

The very idea of nine out of ten citizens doing something voluntarily, gladly and without requiring force upsets some of these chesty little executives, if you ask me; so they fly into action with all the unbearable methods against which we are supposed to be waging a World war.

* * *

If the average man were as arbitrary, half-cocked and unreasonable as some of these minor OPA boys no program could ever make any headway in the traditional American way. I say the response to Washington's orders has been almost unanimous. And all these little men trying to make it appear otherwise ought to be ashamed of themselves.

Health and Diet

Learn How to Cook

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I LIVE, breathe and have my being in Kansas City, Missouri, and recently an administration bureau selected three families in Kansas City and tried out on them a week's recipes which included meat rationing and were supposed to be an economical and well-balanced diet.

The reactions of the housewives in my native town, after having tried the diet, were as follows: "They made no allowances for leftovers." "It is too expensive." "There was so much meat that I never want to see meat again."

It sounds to me a little as though the nutritionists in Washington had been facing a typewriter instead of a kitchen stove. Perhaps what the nutritionists in Washington need is a course in Mr. Squeers' school at Dotheboys Hall. This was in Nicholas Nickleby, if you remember, and Mr. Squeers' method of teaching was: after a boy spelled botany, "b-o-t-i-n-y," he was told to go out and weed the garden. This gave him a first-hand acquaintance with the actualities of life.

Excellent Cook Book.

Before the rest of the United States follows the typewriter nutritionists, I advise them to buy The Pocket Cook Book which will cost 25 cents. Chapter 1 of this volume is "Cookery Terms and Definitions." After reading it you understand what it is to marinate, to parboil, to braise, to score, to truss and to unmold.

Chapter 2 is a "Table of Standard Measurements;" chapter 4 is "Safe Substitutions;" chapter 7 is "Good Nutrition Simplified," which includes a vitamin primer, a mineral primer, a handy calorie chart and two pages on how to save vitamins and minerals.

Chapter 8 is on leftovers and what to do with them; chapter 9 is called "Penny Stretchers;" chapter 10 is "Sugar Sparing Suggestions;" chapter 11 is "Helps for Reducers." The rest of the book, consisting of 459 pages, is filled with recipes, beginning with appetizers, passing on to beverages, breads, canning, pickling, meats, vegetables, desserts, fish, etc.

Meringue Crown Recipe.

For instance, do you know the real way to make meringue crown? This is it: 3 egg whites; 6 tablespoons sugar; few grains salt. Beat egg whites stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar and salt, beating constantly. Pile meringue in ring on greased 9-inch pie plate. Place in shallow pan of warm water. Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Cool.

P. S. Don't write and ask me where you can get a Pocket Cook Book: you can get the POCKET BOOKS at any drug store, railway station, newsstand or book store in the United States.

Timely Editorial

Mail Restriction Rumored.

Unless widespread rumors in official Washington circles are mistaken, one of the next deprivations in store for the American public is a campaign sponsored by the government to induce people not to write letters unless they are essential to their business or contribute to the war effort.

The reason cited is the unprecedented strain thrown on the nation's transportation systems by the exigencies arising from the war.

There will be need for more precise definition of what is "essential to business" or what correspondence "contributes to the war effort."

It is to be hoped, for instance, that letters passing between home and the boys in camps here and overseas will not be considered as "non-contributing." — Columbus Dispatch.

Herbert Hoover Writes:

Home Fronts and Global Strategy Why German Morale Is Declining

—By HERBERT HOOVER

(This is the second in a series of six articles by Mr. Hoover.)

ALL is not well upon the German home front today. The blitz and terror which were to have won a short war have in a large sense failed. Germany has abandoned the hope that she can bring the war to a swift conclusion.

Herbert Hoover

Warned by the collapse on the home front in World War I, the Germans this time made great preparations in expanded agriculture, in stored food, metals, textiles and in synthetic production of oil, rubber explosives. Upon invasion of Norway, Holland, Belgium, Jugoslavia, France, Poland and the Ukraine she seized their accumulated stores.

In consequence of this advance preparation and this robbery, Germany was not substantially short of supplies during the first two years of the war. But she has consumed her stocks and there is much less to be taken from the invaded countries. The tide has now turned on the home front, and all the forces of internal degeneration are now in action.

By working millions of prisoners and imported labor the Germans have kept up the bread, potato, and vegetable supplies. The so-called normal bread and cereal ration amounts to a rate of about 260 pounds per person per annum against the 200 pounds the American people eat.

But the story in meats and fats is far different. The blockade has greatly reduced her imports of vegetable and fish oils and feed for her animals. Her animal products have greatly diminished.

Health Margin Thin.

All calculations of meat and fat supplies are very involved, but the following represent an approximation and indicate the trend. In 1936 the Germans consumed at the rate of about 165 pounds of combined meats and fats of all kinds per person per annum. In 1939 the "normal" ration was at the rate of about 105 pounds, in 1940 about 91 pounds, in 1941 about 81 pounds and in 1942 it was about 70 pounds per annum. Hard workers get more. This does not indicate any substantial meat or fat supplies from the Ukraine.

At my direction after the last war, an investigation of the food experience during the war indicate that the present amount of fats in their ration is below the full health level to the ordinary consumer.

But equally important is the degeneration of practically all other supplies for civilian use, including clothing and coal. The people suffer from cold in winter. Overcrowding is adding its miseries.

The wear and tear on the railways and machine shops and their destruction by air attack are creating difficulties in transportation and manufacture. German manpower on the home front is weakening steadily despite forced labor from the occupied countries.

A work week of 60 hours is the minimum in factories compared to our average of under 44 hours. The workmen are feeling the pressure of overwork. She is making frantic efforts to secure skilled manpower from the occupied countries.

German Dream Gone.

Mentally the people have retreated from confidence of victory and have fallen back upon resolutions of defense. They now realize that they are an island in a sea of 200,000,000 invaded and starving people who hate them with an irreparable bitterness. And thus the Germans know the dream of the new order in Europe has vanished. The terrors of aerial bombardment and the losses in battle are having a depressing effect upon the spirit of the people.

That the home front is far from contented is indicated by the Nazi fortifications of strategic buildings in preparation to quell civil disturbances and by the placement of Nazi generals in command of the armies over the older staff.

Further degeneration cannot be stopped. However, I do not believe the Germans will collapse again internally at the end of this their fourth winter in this war. But it is impossible for them to withstand indefinitely these pressures on the home front.

There is, however, at once a major reservation to this statement. Germany is still potent for offensive, and she is under tremendous pressures from the home front to break somewhere the ring which surrounds her. The only direction she can gain substantial relief for the home front is to the southeast. If her armies could effect junction with the Japanese in the Indian ocean by defeat of the United Nations in Persia or Egypt and India, they could open a new economic area from which great relief would come—rubber, metals, and oil. She could get food, particularly fats, fruit and sugar. She could lift her whole standard of living, and in such an event the home front would stiffen for an indefinite number of years.

Italy's Home Front.

The Italian armies have been so repeatedly defeated in Africa that they have long passed their zenith. Her navy has been beaten in every first-class encounter. Her submarines are not so effective as the Germans'. Her airmen have proved inferior. Like Rumania and Hungary she is only a military appendage to Germany.

Italy is suffering greatly from air raids and seems to have little resistance. She is short of many materials due to the blockade. In food, with a much lower normal standard of living, she is more nearly self-supporting than Germany. But with poor administration many of her people are suffering. She has no coal or oil except such as the Germans give to her. Her clothing is in bad shape from lack of textiles. The coming winter will be the worst she has experienced. Thus on the home front, Italy has degenerated more than Germany. Her zeal for this war has never been extravagant. It is weakening despite stiffening by German personnel. Attrition is likely to produce results on Italy sooner than upon Germany.

Tomorrow: "Why Aid Should Be Given to Vanquished Peoples."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When the story started simmering here recently that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had recalled his military mission to the United States because we were transferring war materials to the British, ring war materials in India destined for China to the British, again.

This is a story that might well have started on Axis short-wave stations.

Let's examine the facts. It's true: (1) That the Chinese military commission has started for home (but it's going to take a leisurely junket through training centers and war plants and probably will not actually be on its way for six weeks yet); (2) That the Generalissimo isn't happy about the short-of-all-out aid being given China (but neither is Stalin happy about aid to Russia; Prime Minister Curtain happy about what is being done to clean up his Australian area; nor the Norwegians, Dutch, Belgians, Greeks, etc., happy that we haven't opened a big second front on their frontiers.)

(3) There is no longer any open road to China. The only possible way we can get any supplies to them immediately is by plane. The only way we can get heavy supplies to them soon is by reopening the Burma Road. The only way we can reopen the Burma Road is by giving General Wavell's (United Nations — not "British") forces in India all the heavy supplies that we possibly can ship there.

FOUR—When Gen. Hsiung Shih-fei, head of the Chinese military mission here, came out of his farewell conference with the president and was asked "if he was satisfied," he answered, "We shall never be satisfied until our enemy is completely defeated." The answer is strictly Oriental, but the conclusion that he and his aides walked out of the White House in anger or disgust is just somebody's pipe-dream.

(5) That Madame Chiang Kai-shek came to the United States for other reasons than her health and that it may well be that timetable for the United Nations' drive into Burma has been ordered stepped up because of Madame Chiang's pleas here.

(6) That as the "arsenal for Democracy" the United States is on the spot as never before, it's up to us to supply the sinews of war in the Pacific. With England to help, we've got to keep aid to Russia flowing; provide most of the knockout drops for the Axis in western Africa; clear the Mediterranean; and threaten the Axis with a second front from Norway to Brittany.

SEVEN—It's the nature of nations to fight for all they can get. Some men who have complained against our apparent strategy have been aware that their statements would be used by the Axis as divide-and-conquer propaganda, but they have been willing to risk that for the sake of increasing the protection of their own people.

These seven points have come from the best military and diplomatic sources I could find here. The eighth and perhaps most important point of all is that we are ourselves training and equipping an army of ten million men.

What ever complaints you hear or feel, apply them to this catechism, get down to cases and—well—write your congressman.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Making Home Happy.

Make home the happiest place of all,
So much depends on you
In this rare effort, home is your
Own self, that shining through

The day is spirit's sustenance.
Make home a happy place
For your own self and for your own
And others' faith and grace.

Bring to it all the joy you know.
Share this, bring beauty's light
That flames a torch above the drab,
And glorifies the sight

Of commonplace. There is so much
That you can do to add
To home's delight, to make of it
A place that's gay and glad.

A Farmer's Diary

Love for Animals

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WATCHED the aged, wiry farmer carry out two large pails of slop for his ten "fattenin' hogs." He was a small man, and the load was heavy. I could see the muscles of his face draw with the pressure of the weight. The eager porkers crowded up to the mammoth trough and hogged their wet mash noisily.

The farmer smiled to himself, as he reached down to the broad bristly shoulder nearest him and scratched it with his knotty fingers. The animal stopped feeding for a moment to acknowledge the rough caress. As the man took the empty pails away, he turned again to get another satisfying glance.

Then he went to the door of the chicken house, with a small bag of feed in hand, stood by and whistled before he opened it. Two foremost hens, inside, sang jubilant answer to him and when he opened the door they crowded about, and I saw the white feathers stroked by the same hand that scratched the fat hog's back.

The old bay team whinnered as he approached their stall with a half bushel of corn and oats. Each horse reached out a black soft nose and received a word of greeting.

The milk cows lowed and pulled heavily at their stanchions. They knew he was coming to them next. The collie followed close at his heels, and was happy at every familiar glance.

They were only animals, but that farmer found a cause for sympathy and love in each. A silent, mutual devotion was between the man and the beasts, such as only a lover of animals can understand.

"If I didn't like the critters I'm workin' with, there'd be little use in farmin'," he said to me.

And I thought, how true! For one perhaps may forge steel with which to destroy his enemy, he might chisel stone or operate a machine without love in his heart—but he cannot do well with animals or crops, he cannot be happy in his home, he cannot bring forth the noblest in his fellowmen or give his own best service, without a deep love for every living creature.

Provision Expected To Be Made To Increase Wages of City Employes.

With the 1943 appropriations measure enjoying the greatest importance, various pieces of legislation will be before council sitting in special session tonight.

While details of a scheduled general pay increase for municipal employes likely will not be ready for consideration tonight it is expected that appropriation adjustments over the budget adopted last July will make provision for their early application.

Another will provide a daily fee of $4.75 for maintenance and care of such patients. The third class for payment not exceeding $118 a month for laboratory services.

Renewal of a fire department service contract with trustees of Madison township will be asked, the township paying $2,000 for such protection during 1943. A similar contract with South Boulevards calls for a fee of $250.

To provide nursing service for the city's indigent a supplemental appropriation of $200 to be paid to the Visiting Nurses association will be considered. The established rate will be 50 cents per visit.

Under proposed legislation City Auditor Paul L. Kelley will be authorized and directed to ask county officials for advance drafts on 1943 tax monies payable to the city to meet operating expenses.

urer's report. This report and that of the executive secretary, Jane Williams, was presented at last night's meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

More than 50 members and subscribers of the organization attended the session which marked the first time that the annual meeting has been held in January since the fiscal year was changed to January from June. All subscribers were eligible to vote for the 40 trustees elected during the meeting.

Disbursements since June 1, after the continuation drive held to sustain the agencies until the beginning of the new fiscal year, amounted to $33,907.91. Receipts, including $24,856.39 pledged to the continuation drive plus a balance of $8,865.59 on hand June 1, and other monies amounting to $645.31 totalled $33,936.86.

Only $317 28 remains due on the 1942 continuation drive to which $24,856 39 was pledged. The amount collected totalled $24,-425.96 while shrinkage due to job tournover, death and defaulted payments were listed at $430.

Agencies in the Fund shared in the disbursements to the extent of $29,512.16. Administration costs totalled $2,197.75, campaign expenses amounting to $2,168.80 were loaned to the War Chest and miscellaneous expenses totalled $29 20.

Changes and accomplishments of the Fund the past 18 months were described by Mrs. Williams, executive secretary.

She recalled that at the end of the 1932-33 fiscal year, the Fund had barely enough money to operate for two weeks.

In 1939, however, the Fund started on the come-back trail and with Clyde Smaltz as campaign chairman and Sidney Palmer as executive secretary, raised $63,000 exceeding its goal by $4,000. Each campaign since then, she said, has gone over the top, last year raising $71,000.

This year with the War Chest as a partner $163,000 was pledged on a $64,000 goal to the combined organizations.

Attention was directed to the two new agencies added to the Fund last year, The Hospital Bureau and St. Vincent de Paul society, and to the initiative taken by the Fund in setting up a War Chest organization. An emergency fund has also grown from $202 in 1940 to $4,000, she said.

The request of two agencies, Friendly House and the Y. M C A, for the total sum of $1,710 to continue supervision and leadership in certain activities that would otherwise be curtailed since the WPA which furnished a worker to each organization has ceased, was considered by the executive committee.

Action was taken to advance salary for one month to each agency so that a worker could be employed and activities continued uninterrupted until a request for the amount could be carried by the executive committee to the War Chest committee.

The Y. M. C. A will receive $80 for salary against its year's request for $960 and Friendly House will receive $62 50 The latter agency asked for $750 to employ a worker for the year.

Should the War Chest agree to the request the salaries would come out of the Chest overage fund and not out of the contingency fund set up by the Community Fund.

Nine new trustees were elected on the report of the nominating committee headed by Atty. J. H. Gongwer, and all others were retained. The new members were: Mrs. Irl Fisher, Mrs. W. W. Grant, H. H. Schettler, J. B. Jurgens, Fred Hout Orlo Smith, Clarence Fike, Stewart Roberts and Lloyd Braden.

The retiring trustees are: Robert C. Remy, Dr. F. J. Herringhaus, Dean Eckert, Mrs Mary Gilbert, Mrs. W. M. Layton, Rev. D. N. Roller, Philip Schmultzer, Norman K. Kann and M. P. Wolcott.

Petrillo Asks Investigation of Critics, Charges Monopoly.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President James Caesar Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians told senators investigating a union ban against recorded music today that "a few giant corporations" had become rich at the expense of "the live musician."

Only by a full inquiry into the industry, he testified, could the committee know the extent of "the tremendous control of the entire music industry, including record making, radio broadcasting" by these corporations.

The short, stocky Chicago man who has headed his union since 1940 said these corporations "have become powerful and prosperous on the original work, and at the expense of, the live musicians."

Thus: Petrillo, object of the investigation by an interstate commerce subcommittee headed by Senator Clark (D., Idaho), in turn demanded an investigation of his principal critics, who, he said, were guilty "of monopoly, interlocking arrangements and large profits."

Sen. Clark Introduces Pay-As-You-Go Measure to Congress.

Allies Sink Another Jap Warship, Belief

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA — (INS)—A Japanese warship escorting the ill-fated enemy convoy which attempted to reinforce Nipponese troops at Lae, New Guinea, was believed today to have been sunk by Allied aircraft pursuing the beaten naval force northeastward to the island of New Britain.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in a communique that a Japanese cruiser or large destroyer had been successfully attacked by American torpedo planes off Gasmata on the south coast of New Britain.

The hits scored by the torpedo planes in a dusk attack caused huge explosions aboard the Jap warship. "The ship was not visible at daybreak and she was believed to have sunk during the night," the communique stated.

The enemy convoy, which set out from an enemy base on New Britain island early last week and headed westward for New Guinea included six transport and supply ships, two cruisers and four destroyers.

The invasion force, heavily protected by war planes, was under almost constant attack by Allied bombers and was severely damaged before reaching its goal at Lae.

The first communique on the sea-air battle told of sinking two transports and damaging one. The following day another transport was reported sunk and two damaged. Monday's communique reported damaging hits scored on two unidentified vessels

This raised the total losses of the enemy in the ill-fated expedition to three transports sunk and a warship probably sunk, three transports damaged and two unidentified vessels damaged. It was not clear, however, whether the last two vessels had been previously damaged.

In addition the Japanese lost 137 planes destroyed, probably destroyed and damaged in the disastrous attempt to reinforce the Lae garrison.

Japs Resist British Advance In Burma

NEW DELHI — (INS) — Japanese forces are offering strong resistance in heavy fighting against British ground forces in the Donbiak area in the Arakan district of Burma, the British India command announced today.

The furious clashes followed a further southward advance toward the port of Akyab by forces under command of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell.

A new bombing assault last night by British aircraft against the Jap-occupied villages on Akyab island also was announced in the communique.

NEAR DEATH IN ROUTE 42 CRASH

Ashlander Critically Injured as Car Hits Truck, Which Sets Off Police Alarm.

Earl E. Wise, 35, Ashland R. D. 4, is near death in General hospital and William G. Mathias, 42, Caledonia, is recovering of injuries resulting from a collision at 1:40 a. m. today on Ashland road near East Fourth street.

Wise, unconscious and bleeding profusely, was removed from his crushed sedan after 30 minutes of effort by Police Captain Paul Whipp, Lieutenant Eugene Hartnett and Patrolmen John Grohol and Carl Beard.

Mathias said he was driving a stake-body stock truck about 200 feet in the rear of a semi-trailer outfit when the Wise car came past the trailer at high speed, swung to the wrong side of the road and crashed into the Mathias truck.

The truck was hurled off the road against a utility pole which was sheared off and a police-fire signal apparatus, attached to it, set off ringing in police and fire headquarters. The Wise car turned over several times before coming to rest on the curb.

Wise is listed on police reports as a railroad brakeman. Shortly before the collision, police say, they had arrested his companion at an East Fourth street cafe when called there on a report of disturbance, but not until after Wise had left the scene in his car.

Other accidents reported were minor collisions between autos driven by Charles Eichinger, 236 East First street, and John Schoesler, 49 Wolfe avenue, at Diamond and First streets, and John F. Lantz, Mansfield R. D. 4, and John Pocock, 98 Hedges street, on Foster street.

Ice Cream Production Again Is Cut By WPB

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—The war production board today limited January production of ice cream to 50 per cent of the amount each manufacturer made last October.

This represented a reduction of one-sixth from December, when each manufacturer was permitted to make 60 per cent of his October amount.

The order also applies to frozen custard, milk sherbet, other frozen desserts and ice cream mix. WPB said the order "was issued at the request of the United States department of agriculture ... to further relieve the butter shortage."

IF YOUR BORDEN'S DEALER IS SHORT OF ICE CREAM . . . HERE'S THE REASON

The amount of ice cream the Borden's dealer receives from us has been cut . . . because the amount the government lets us manufacture has been cut.

So while we make every effort to distribute the restricted output of Borden's ice cream fairly, occasionally a dealer can give you only part of your order, or he may even run out entirely. If this should happen, won't you please be patient? Your Borden's dealer is doing the best he can to meet a difficult situation.

One Hundred Billion Dollars a Year

BECAUSE the word "billions" supplanted "millions" in calculation of United States government operating costs, even in the peace-time years of the Roosevelt administrations, the public mind has become so attuned to substitution of the "b" for the "m" that further expansion to "one hundred billions," as the president's budget estimate for national expenditures during the fiscal year starting next July 1, does not cause the shock which its enormity justifies.

By comparison, it is interesting to note that it took the United States government 141 years—from 1789 to 1930—to spend $100,000,000,000, including financing the War of 1812, the Mexican war, the Spanish-American war and the first World war, as well as all of the nation's official operating costs over that period.

Further information is that this amount not only dwarfs all past records of proposed expenditures by the United States but IS MORE THAN THE COMBINED ANNUAL MONEY EXPENDITURES OF ALL THE OTHER BELLIGERENTS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE WAR!

With the national debt now at $112,000,000,000, President Roosevelt foresees a rise to $210,000,000,000 by June 30, 1944, and says this will require revision of the present $125,000,000,000 limitation.

"Some persons may believe that such a program is fantastic," said the president—but it may not be the monetary phases of the program, so much as the rather casual jump to such astronomical figures, that is regarded as "fantastic."

Granted the superior position of the United States, in matters of natural resources and production facilities, it may still be wondered by what quirk of fate it has become incumbent upon the people of this country to assume a larger burden of war financing than the total of all other belligerents—and whether such a sum, if intelligently expended, is really needed to accomplish the purpose of winning the war.

The war must be won by the United Nations—that is a matter of general agreement by all Americans. Whatever the necessary costs may be, in money, sacrifices and work, these must be met. But any observer knows that war costs have been permitted to run atrociously high in this country—as compared with similar costs in other countries—and that much of this has been due to ineptitude and preferential treatment on the part of agencies of administration.

That old slogan, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute," might well be changed for present application to "Billions, if needed to win the war—but not another dollar to sustain political parasites in Washington."

Record of Faithful Service

ESTIMATES of a person are best made by those with whom he is in daily contact long enough to give opportunity for fair judgment.

Such was the experience of many Mansfielders in their association with Thomas M. Bell, and it is gratifying to have a personal impression confirmed by all of those who were in better position to know him and to judge his work in the Mansfield police department over a long term of years.

It was a younger man—Police Chief Meade K. Bates—who said of Tom Bell: "He was the best friend I ever had. . . . Tom was the most reliable and conscientious officer I've ever known. . . . His life was dedicated to the performance of duty."

Judge Kalbfleisch said of him: "Chief Bell was a true peace officer. He constantly sought the sources and causes of crime and strove diligently to prevent their execution."

Other associates expressed themselves in similar vein, both as to Tom Bell's service as a soldier in the Spanish American war and his later association with law enforcement work.

Advancing from patrolman to lieutenant, then captain and assistant chief, and finally to a year of service as chief of the department, Mr. Bell passed through a rapidly changing era of police work and demonstrated ability to adapt himself to all new conditions as they appeared.

A few words sum up his characteristic attitude in the performance of his duties: Honesty, calmness, frankness, firmness and faithfulness.

With these attributes, coupled with capability and a sincere interest in his work, it is easy to understand why Tom Bell was so highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Probing the German Mind

HENRY WALLACE and Dorothy Thompson are suggesting the "psychological disarmament of Germany." That is, disarmament by changing the German way of thinking.

Many other people have thought of that, and tried it, but they haven't got very far with it. For the German people seem to be more clannish than most of the other races. They tend to think together and act together, and believe strongly in their own superiority. There is no such individualism among them as exists among the British, French, Americans and some other races. Their tendency to think and feel together makes them often act in crises like a flock of birds—all moving mentally in the same direction at one time.

Their racial tendency to mental suggestion might make them good subjects for the "psychological disarmament" desired by their neighbors, except for the sad fact that they are disinclined to accept the views of other nations.

What the people of Germany obviously need, to get along with the world they live in, is more open-mindedness, more readiness to accept ideas and viewpoints from intelligent and wise people of other nations. But there is little evidence of such a change.

A lexicographer has been asked whether "a raise" or "an increase" in salary is correct—the question being purely hypothetical of course, as it is wages that are raised and taxes increased.

Careful investigation of the Boston night club fire a few weeks ago, in which almost 500 lives were lost, has led to the decision that "it shouldn't have happened."

SOMEBODY'S BEEN MESSING WITH THE PORRIDGE

Chinese Still Laugh Despite War

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

CHUNGKING—China's wartime capital is one of the highest priced cities of the world and as such reflects from the rest of the country a cost of living which is staggering.

Chungking presents some exceptions, of course, because it is an ancient provincial city which had metropolitan conditions suddenly thrust upon it. This old town, which clings precariously to the precipitous sides of the mountain that lords it over the junction of the Yangtze and Chialing rivers, never was intended as the first city of the land.

Scarcity of accommodations and lack of suitable transportation facilities have forced some prices up. Still, conditions here give a fair gauge of the country's difficulties.

Life isn't easy in China these days, though it should be said that there is sufficient food, barring many districts in Honan province where there has been a drought.

Fortunately, wages of labor have increased enough so the working man and his family, generally speaking, aren't hungry. Many business men are keeping the wolf from the door. But the poor white-collar worker, as usual, is suffering heavily. Salaries haven't moved up with the cost of living.

Chungking doesn't escape because it is the capital. On the contrary, it is, so to speak, on the firing line. Because of the lack of materials, it is likely that the plaster in your house is falling off and holes in the roof may let in rain. Your plumbing, if you have plumbing, may not work.

THE lack of transportation has created a scarcity in many things and coal, of which China has much, is one of these. Chungking government offices and public places like restaurants are forbidden to have fires, although the winter weather is raw and cold.

Gasoline is as precious as molten pearls and motor cars are few and far between. Good Samaritanism is the rule, but for the most part you just climb up and down these steep hills on your own legs.

Little luxuries like cakes are shared with all who may be in the room. That is typical throughout Chungking.

With all this, you might think the Chinese would be downhearted and rather sorry for themselves—but not so. They are as a whole about the most extraordinarily cheerful folk I've encountered, and I've traveled in maybe 50 countries or more.

They laugh a lot and it's real. Adversity may dampen their spirits temporarily, but it can't long keep away laughter, for the Chinese even can extract humor from hard knocks.

Almost anything that comes to their mills is grist, and be it old or new, they appreciate it. For instance, they still get a smile out of the story about Marco Polo. This is in the general vicinty of the parts he visited so long ago, and the tale revolves about a remark he made.

It seems Marco became annoyed at reports that his prince back home said the traveller was talking too much, whereupon Marco flashed:

"I'm Marco Polo, and I say what I damn please!"

I'm glad I came to China if for nothing else but to see these people laugh. Having experienced their irrepressible spirits, I have no fears whatever that the Japs can beat them. You can't defeat a people who have such a pronounced sense of humor as the Chinese.

Dave Boone Says:

THAT was quite a stirring war spectacle — Ed Flynn, the Democratic boss, suspended away up in mid-air between Australia and the Bronx, with the ack-ack flying all around him—he must have wondered whether to jump without a parachute or trust Roosevelt to rescue him.

* * *

New York City is furnishing the whole country with a splendid example of how not to handle the situation created by the new auto rules. Talk about gestapo methods.

* * *

The American public everywhere has responded wonderfully to Washington's first real explanation of what's wanted. Everybody comments on it. Only the community OPA chiefs have flown off the handle and got excited.

* * *

The very idea of nine out of ten citizens doing something voluntarily, gladly and without requiring force upsets some of these chesty little executives, if you ask me; so they fly into action with all the unbearable methods against which we are supposed to be waging a World war.

* * *

If the average man were as arbitrary, half-cocked and unreasonable as some of these minor OPA boys no program could ever make any headway in the traditional American way. I say the response to Washington's orders has been almost unanimous. And all these little men trying to make it appear otherwise ought to be ashamed of themselves.

Health and Diet

Learn How to Cook

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I LIVE, breathe and have my being in Kansas City, Missouri, and recently an administration bureau selected three families in Kansas City and tried out on them a week's recipes which included meat rationing and were supposed to be an economical and well-balanced diet.

The reactions of the housewives in my native town, after having tried the diet, were as follows: "They made no allowances for leftovers." "It is too expensive." "There was so much meat that I never want to see meat again."

It sounds to me a little as though the nutritionists in Washington had been facing a typewriter instead of a kitchen stove. Perhaps what the nutritionists in Washington need is a course in Mr. Squeers' school at Dotheboys Hall. This was in Nicholas Nickleby, if you remember, and Mr. Squeers' method of teaching was: after a boy spelled botany, "b-o-t-t-i-n-y," he was told to go out and weed the garden. This gave him a first-hand acquaintance with the actualities of life.

Excellent Cook Book.

Before the rest of the United States follows the typewriter nutritionists, I advise them to buy The Pocket Cook Book which will cost 25 cents. Chapter 1 of this volume is "Cookery Terms and Definitions." After reading it you understand what it is to marinate, to parboil, to braise, to score, to truss and to unmold.

Chapter 2 is a "Table of Standard Measurements;" chapter 4 is "Safe Substitutions;" chapter 7 is "Good Nutrition Simplified," which includes a vitamin primer, a mineral primer, a handy calorie chart and two pages on how to save vitamins and minerals.

Chapter 8 is on leftovers and what to do with them; chapter 9 is called "Penny Stretchers;" chapter 10 is "Sugar Sparing Suggestions;" chapter 11 is "Helps for Reducers." The rest of the book, consisting of 439 pages, is filled with recipes, beginning with appetizers, passing on to beverages, breads, canning, pickling, meats, vegetables, desserts, fish, etc.

Meringue Crown Recipe.

For instance, do you know the real way to make meringue crown? This is it: 3 egg whites; 6 tablespoons sugar; few grains salt. Beat egg whites stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar and salt, beating constantly. Pile meringue in ring on greased 9-inch pie plate. Place in shallow pan of warm water. Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Cool.

P. S. Don't write and ask me where you can get a Pocket Cook Book: you can get the POCKET BOOKS at any drug store, railway station, newsstand or book store in the United States.

Timely Editorial

Mail Restriction Rumored.

Unless widespread rumors in official Washington circles are mistaken, one of the next deprivations in store for the American public is a campaign sponsored by the government to induce people not to write letters unless they are essential to their business or contribute to the war effort.

The reason cited is the unprecedented strain thrown on the nation's transportation systems by the exigencies arising from the war.

There will be need for more precise definition of what is "essential to business" or what correspondence "contributes to the war effort."

It is to be hoped, for instance, that letters passing between home and the boys in camps here and overseas will not be considered as "non-contributing." — Columbus Dispatch.

Herbert Hoover Writes:

Home Fronts and Global Strategy Why German Morale Is Declining

—By HERBERT HOOVER

(This is the second in a series of six articles by Mr. Hoover.)

ALL is not well upon the German home front today. The blitz and terror which were to have won a short war have in a large sense failed. Germany has abandoned the hope that she can bring the war to a swift conclusion.

Herbert Hoover

Warned by the collapse on the home front in World War I, the Germans this time made great preparations in expanded agriculture, in stored food, metals, textiles and in synthetic production of oil, rubber explosives. Upon invasion of Norway, Holland, Belgium, Jugoslavia, France, Poland and the Ukraine she seized their accumulated stores.

In consequence of this advance preparation and this robbery, Germany was not substantially short of supplies during the first two years of the war. But she has consumed her stocks and there is much less to be taken from the invaded countries. The tide has now turned on the home front, and all the forces of internal degeneration are now in action.

By working millions of prisoners and imported labor the Germans have kept up the bread, potato, and vegetable supplies. The so-called normal bread and cereal ration amounts to a rate of about 260 pounds per person per annum against the 200 pounds the American people eat.

But the story in meats and fats is far different. The blockade has greatly reduced her imports of vegetable and fish oils and feed for her animals. Her animal products have greatly diminished.

Health Margin Thin.

All calculations of meat and fat supplies are very involved, but the following represent an approximation and indicate the trend. In 1936 the Germans consumed at the rate of about 165 pounds of combined meats and fats of all kinds per person per annum. In 1939 the "normal" ration was at the rate of about 105 pounds, in 1940 about 91 pounds, in 1941 about 81 pounds and in 1942 it was about 70 pounds per annum. Hard workers get more. This does not indicate any substantial meat or fat supplies from the Ukraine.

At my direction after the last war, an investigation of the food experience during the war indicate that the present amount of fats in their ration is below the full health level to the ordinary consumer.

But equally important is the degeneration of practically all other supplies for civilian use, including clothing and coal. The people suffer from cold in winter. Overcrowding is adding its miseries.

The wear and tear on the railways and machine shops and their destruction by air attack are creating difficulties in transportation and manufacture. German manpower on the home front is weakening steadily despite forced labor from the occupied countries.

A work week of 60 hours is the minimum in factories compared to our average of under 44 hours. The workmen are feeling the pressure of overwork. She is making frantic efforts to secure skilled manpower from the occupied countries.

German Dream Gone.

Mentally the people have retreated from confidence of victory and have fallen back upon resolutions of defense. They now realize that they are an island in a sea of 200,000,000 invaded and starving people who hate them with an irreparable bitterness. And thus the Germans know the dream of the new order in Europe has vanished. The terrors of aerial bombardment and the losses in battle are having a depressing effect upon the spirit of the people.

That the home front is far from contented is indicated by the Nazi fortifications of strategic buildings in preparation to quell civil disturbances and by the placement of Nazi generals in command of the armies over the older staff.

Further degeneration cannot be stopped. However, I do not believe the Germans will collapse again internally at the end of this their fourth winter in this war. But it is impossible for them to withstand indefinitely these pressures on the home front.

There is, however, at once a major reservation to this statement. Germany is still potent for offensive, and she is under tremendous pressures from the home front to break somewhere the ring which surrounds her. The only direction she can gain substantial relief for the home front is to the southeast. If her armies could effect junction with the Japanese in the Indian ocean by defeat of the United Nations in Persia or Egypt and India, they could open a new economic area from which great relief would come—rubber, metals, and oil. She could get food, particularly fats, fruit and sugar. She could lift her whole standard of living, and in such an event the home front would stiffen for an indefinite number of years.

Italy's Home Front.

The Italian armies have been so repeatedly defeated in Africa that they have long passed their zenith. Her navy has been beaten in every first-class encounter. Her submarines are not so effective as the Germans'. Her airmen have proved inferior. Like Rumania and Hungary she is only a military appendage to Germany.

Italy is suffering greatly from air raids and seems to have little resistance. She is short of many materials due to the blockade. In food, with a much lower normal standard of living, she is more nearly self-supporting than Germany. But with poor administration many of her people are suffering. She has no coal or oil except such as the Germans give to her. Her clothing is in bad shape from lack of textiles. The coming winter will be the worst she has experienced. Thus on the home front, Italy has degenerated more than Germany. Her zeal for this war has never been extravagant. It is weakening despite stiffening by German personnel. Attrition is likely to produce results on Italy sooner than upon Germany.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When the story started simmering here recently that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had recalled his military mission to the United States because we were transferring war materials to the British, ring war materials in India destined for China to the British, again.

This is a story that might well have started on Axis short-wave stations.

Let's examine the facts. It's true: (1) That the Chinese military commission has started for home (but it's going to take a leisurely junket through training centers and war plants and probably will not actually be on its way for six weeks yet); (2) That the Generalissimo isn't happy about the short-of-all-out aid being given China (but neither is Stalin happy about aid to Russia; Prime Minister Curtain happy about what is being done to clean up his Australian area; nor the Norwegians, Dutch, Belgians, Grecks, etc., happy that we haven't opened a big second front on their frontiers.)

(3) There is no longer any open road to China. The only possible way we can get any supplies to them immediately is by plane. The only way we can get heavy supplies to them soon is by reopening the Burma Road. The only way we can reopen the Burma Road is by giving General Wavell's (United Nations — not "British") forces in India all the heavy supplies that we possibly can ship there.

FOUR—When Gen. Hsiung Shih-fei, head of the Chinese military mission here, came out of his farewell conference with the president and was asked "if he was satisfied," he answered, "We shall never be satisfied until our enemy is completely defeated." The answer is strictly Oriental, but the conclusion that he and his aides walked out of the White House in anger or disgust is just somebody's pipe-dream.

(5) That Madame Chiang Kai-shek came to the United States for other reasons than her health and that it may well be that timetable for the United Nations' drive into Burma has been ordered stepped up because of Madame Chiang's pleas here.

(6) That as the "arsenal for Democracy" the United States is on the spot as never before, it's up to us to supply the sinews of war in the Pacific. With England to help, we've got to keep aid to Russia flowing; provide most of the knockout drops for the Axis in western Africa; clear the Mediterranean; and threaten the Axis with a second front from Norway to Brittany.

SEVEN—It's the nature of nations to fight for all they can get. Some men who have complained against our apparent strategy have been aware that their statements would be used by the Axis as divide-and-conquer propaganda, but they have been willing to risk that for the sake of increasing the protection of their own people.

These seven points have come from the best military and diplomatic sources I could find here. The eighth and perhaps most important point of all is that we are ourselves training and equipping an army of ten million men.

What ever complaints you hear or feel, apply them to this catechism, get down to cases and—well—write your congressman.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Making Home Happy.

Make home the happiest place of all.
So much depends on you
In this rare effort, home is your
Own self, that shining through

The day is spirit's sustenance.
Make home a happy place
For your own self and for your own
And others' faith and grace.

Bring to it all the joy you know.
Share this, bring beauty's light
That flames a torch above the drab,
And glorifies the sight

Of commonplace. There is so much
That you can do to add
To home's delight, to make of it
A place that's gay and glad.

A Farmer's Diary

Love for Animals

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WATCHED the aged, wiry farmer carry out two large pails of slop for his ten "fattenin' hogs." He was a small man, and the load was heavy. I could see the muscles of his face draw with the pressure of the weight. The eager porkers crowded up to the mammoth trough and hogged their wet mash noisily.

The farmer smiled to himself, as he reached down to the broad bristly shoulder nearest him and scratched it with his knotty fingers. The animal stopped feeding for a moment to acknowledge the rough caress. As the man took the empty pails away, he turned again to get another satisfying glance.

Then he went to the door of the chicken house, with a small bag of feed in hand, stood by and whistled before he opened it. Two foremost hens, inside, sang jubilant answer to him and when he opened the door they crowded about, and I saw the white feathers stroked by the same hand that scratched the fat hog's back.

The old bay team whinnered as he approached their stall with a half bushel of corn and oats. Each horse reached out a black soft nose and received a word of greeting.

The milk cows lowed and pulled heavily at their stanchions. They knew he was coming to them next. The collie followed close at his heels, and was happy at every familiar glance.

They were only animals, but that farmer found a cause for sympathy and love in each. A silent, mutual devotion was between the man and the beasts, such as only a lover of animals can understand.

"If I didn't like the critters I'm workin' with, there'd be little use in farmin'," he said to me.

And I thought, how true! For one perhaps may forge steel with which to destroy his enemy, he might chisel stone or operate a machine without love in his heart—but he cannot do well with animals or crops, he cannot be happy in his home, he cannot bring forth the noblest in his fellowmen or give his own best service, without a deep love for every living creature.
